Not All Fallout Snow

Prospects for a bright Christmas seemed as unlikely as the chances for a white Christmas for the Tommy Lane family of eight who lost their house and all personal belongings Dec. 12.

The weather forecast was for clearing and sunny skies no snow in sight, the day of the fire.

The family had escaped injury early that morning, but were forced to seek shelter in the home of a relative until they found another place to live. They had managed only to save a coat and the bed clothing the children were wearing. Tommy Lane was at work.

The change in the weather almost coincided with the change in luck for the family.

After an appeal for food, clothing and furniture by the city welfare center in the Daily Standard Dec. 21, townspeople responded generously. It snowed four inches Dec. 23.

Several gave food and clothing. A few gave money. Two church groups contributed items, Mrs. Lane said.

The family enjoyed a good Christmas in a house they rented at 1404 Osage.

"We wish to thank everyone, Mrs. Lane said. Most persons who donated to the family didn't leave a name, so we just want to say thanks to everyone."

Mrs. Lane said the only thing the family needs now is dressers to store clothing.

Pay Increase Eyed for Seven Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 7 million workers will be up for wage hikes in 1967 in new labor talks or previously negotiated contracts, and James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union leads off the parade.

The Labor Department reports the round of major labor negotiations will be the biggest in recent years, covering airline pilots, auto workers, food processors, railroad employes and workers in textile, rubber, paper, telephone and many other industries.

The government's figure cover only contracts involving 1,000 or more workers and smaller cases will bring the total number of workers involved considerably higher.

Of the 7 million workers listed, more than 3 million will be involved in new contract talks and nearly 4 million will get wage increases negotiated earlier in long-term contracts.

Hoffa, starting negotiations next month for some 450,000 Teamsters under his union's national trucking contract, opens the first of the major new contract negotiations.

Reportedly planning to demand a 7 per cent hike in wages and fringe benefits, but possibly settling for 5 per cent, the Teamsters will set the tone for the size of expected 1967 labor demands.

Although wage settlements averaged 3.7 per cent in 1966, the pattern moved toward 5 per cent in the latter part of the year in major agreements covering airlines mechanics and electrical industry workers.

Uncle Turns Up to Claim Orphan Hero

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard Campos, an orphan who lived alone and unwanted and ended his 26 years on a Vietnam battlefield, belongs to somebody at last.

The Army in Washington announced Thursday that a three-week search for a living relative of the sergeant's was over. An uncle, James Diego Campos, a Sacramento, Calif. farm worker, was declared legal next of kin.

The soldier's body had lain unclaimed in the mortuary of the Oakland Army Terminal. He was killed Dec. 6 on a combat patrol.

Now, Richard, a ward of the State of California much of his life, has found in death somebody who cares. His country will repay his devotion with a military funeral and an honored grave.

Last week, the country was stirred by the news that a man who died for his country lay unclaimed.

It seemed that Campos had no living relative. Campos mother died when he was 2. There was no record of his father.

At 6th Army Headquarters, officers despaired of finding a relative.

"If any man should now come forward — and I don't think he will — he certainly would have a hard time proving anything."

But proof was there, in the baptismal certificate offered by James Diego Campos which proved he was the brother of Nieves Campos, Richard's mother who died at age 19.

James Diego Campos, found Sunday in a Sacramento hotel room, said he hadn't seen Richard in 15 years and had not kept in touch because he was a farm worker "moving around all the time."

In its announcement, the Army expressed "appreciation to news media which helped locate Sgt. Campos' uncle."

The Army was quoted as saying the uncle said he planned to bury his nephew in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Mrs. Powell Absent Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - It was three times and out today for Mrs. Adam Clayton Powell as she turned down once more a date with a congressional investigating committee.

Chairman Wayne L. Lays, D-Ohio, said that was her last chance and he will recommend she be removed from her $20,500-a-year job on her husband's congressional staff.

Mrs. Powell, who lives in Puerto Rico, was subpoenaed to appear before Hays' subcommittee in its investigation of Powell's payroll and travel expenses.

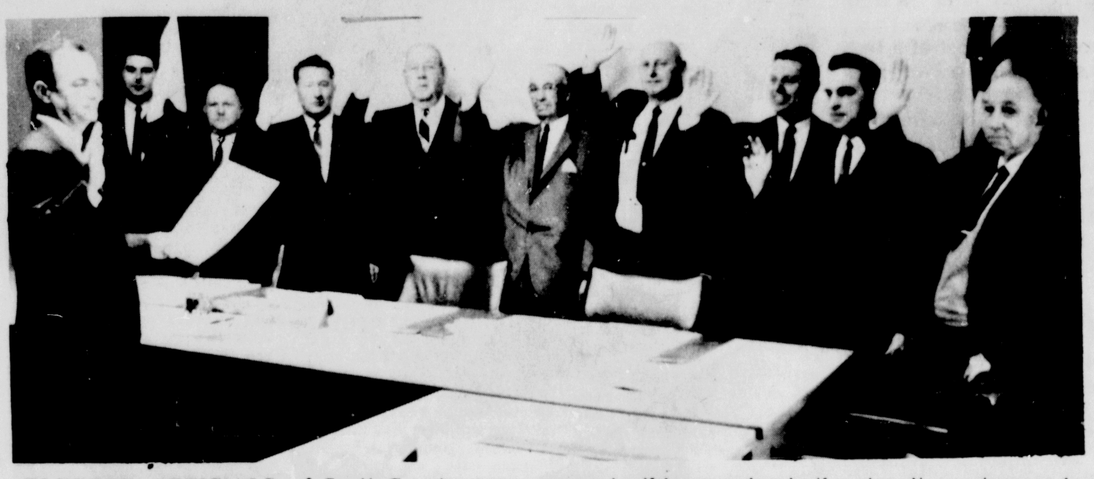
She did not show up on two previous dates set for her and was given a final chance today. The subcommittee is winding up its inquiry and writing a report due to be printed Jan. 3.

Through attorneys, Mrs. Powell had said she was unable to make travel arrangements so speedily. Hays said airline tickets bought by the subcommittee for her and her 4-year-old son had been available in San Juan for days.

Before today's third nonappearance by Mrs. Powell, Hays had said if she did not show up he would recommend not only that she be fired but that she be cited for contempt of Congress.

Essex Man Cuts Arm on Wire

There was one emergency patient treated Thursday in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Lindell D. King, Essex, cut his right hand on wire.



ELECTED OFFICIALS of Scott County were sworn in this morning in the circuit court room in Benton by Phil Waldman Jr., county clerk. Receiving the oath office from left are Jack Sides, probate judge; Hess Porter, treasurer; Aubrey Michael, collector; J. E. Childress, associate judge, county court, first district; Harris Rodgers, presiding county court judge; Bob Davis, associate judge, county court, second district; Lynn Ingram, circuit clerk; John Bollinger, recorder, and C. L. Blanton Jr., health center trustee.

Hearnes Praises Toll Turnpikes, Defends Criticism of LBJ Policies

By Jerry Obermark

A glimpse into the future possibilities of toll roads without a tax increase for Missouri and reflections on criticisms of the Johnson administration were made by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday night at the SEMO Shrine club's ladies night banquet.

The governor opened his remarks by stating that as of Jan. 11, he will have completed two years in the governor's office.

"In that time I have made about 700 speeches, but the story behind how this appearance came about was most unusual and one you normally would not believe," the governor said.

Club President, Melvin Dace, sent the audience of 140 persons into rollicking laughter by introducing the governor's wife as "Miss Peggy Hearnes." Her name is Betty, the governor said: "Now I know you'll believe me."

When Dace requested the governor to speak he said he wanted to make it at a convenient time for the governor.

He told me: "We want a good speaker. No, we want someone like you who'll draw a crowd," the governor related.

The governor, who came to Sikeston from Charleston, where he is spending the holidays, turned to the subject of toll roads for Missouri.

He explained that since he took office many things happened that he expected and many things occurred that no one could have foreseen.

Toll roads as a need for the state is something, he said, he foresaw as a need back in 1953, during his second term as a representative from Mississippi county. He stated that a bill proposing toll roads was defeated at that time and he told himself then, if he ever had an opportunity to exert more influence in bringing about toll roads he would.

"I assure you that the governor's office in 1967, will be fully behind toll roads for Missouri," Hearnes said.

An interim committee of Missouri legislators is studying the possibility of toll roads and a bill proposing toll roads, or turnpikes likely will be introduced in 1967, he indicated.

The plans for construction of toll roads for the state call for financing without an increase in the gasoline tax, the governor added.

"I don't believe that Missourians would stand for that. There may be an increase of one cent in the gas tax in the next few years, but it would not be for toll roads. It would be for maintenance of existing roads," Hearnes said.

Three routes for toll roads are being considered, although at this stage they might be termed "dreams", he noted.

The routes being considered are: running from Kansas City to Arkansas, from Kansas City to Southeast Missouri by way of the Ozarks, and from Kansas City to Chicago running north of Hannibal.

The bare bones outline of how the toll roads would be financed is as follows: creation of a toll road authority within the state highway commission.

Other states have two separate bodies often at odds with each other, the governor explained.

The highway commission could issue bonds for the construction of toll roads, then lease the bonds to the highway department. The highway department collect the tolls and pay off the lease.

Motorists, he said, would have the choice of paying one or two cents a mile and travel modern four-lane highways, or weave their way through existing two-lane routes.

"I would prefer to pay the toll," Hearnes said. "I believe if Missouri is to progress this has to be."

Turning from toll roads to reaction from his critical comments about the Johnson administration at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., at a governors' conference and subsequent criticism of policies of the administration at a Texas White House meeting with President Johnson, Hearnes said he had not changed his mind.

Hearnes said he felt that the results of the Nov. 8 election indicated a need for a readjustment of domestic spending policies.

"As I told them in Texas, to say we spent $22 million fighting poverty, doesn't mean a thing, until you say how the money was spent."

Hearnes pointed out that he meant no criticism of President Johnson as a man. "But there comes a point, I feel, when constructive criticism is necessary," he said.

Hearnes said he felt it was time for a readjustment in policy on the federal level. He said he felt this is what the last election indicated, and he felt the President should be told this.

He explained that when a politician claims to be either a conservative or a liberal, he constantly must defend that label. He said he is against such labeling.

The liberal always promises action. The conservative is usually against things.

The Nov. 8 relection returns reflected a nationwide vote against liberal failure to solve all problems, in my opinion, he said.

As a politician I would be deceptive, if I said that I was not interested in how the people reacted after the news media circulated the story, Hearnes said.

"But from the numerous letters and personal reactions, I still feel I was right," he said, "I feel it was something that needed to be said."

"Seventeen of the 18 governors in Virginia agreed with my position," he said. "Since the stories appeared, we have received mail expressing agreement and disagreement of my criticisms."

Hearnes said he felt he expressed the majority opinion of Missourians, and the reactions received since, have confirmed that conviction.

The federal government programs are fine, "if they tell we have so much money to fight poverty," he said. "But don't tell the states -- you have to take it.

"We want them to say-here is so much to fight poverty. Take it and fight poverty from the state level," he continued.

The governor said, he doesn't think President Johnson will penalize Missouri for what he said.

"If the penalty for telling the truth, as I see it, causes us to lose federal funds, then let's lose them now," he said.

"The right to stand up and be counted and to say what we think must be preserved. If it is ever lost, I not only want to retire from the democratic party, but from politics."

Hawk-Dove Balance Of Power Unsteady

WASHINGTON AP -- Will President Johnson's administration be dominated by the hawks or the doves in 1967?

There are sharp differences in the ranks, but the prevailing attitude in Congress appears to be hawk-ish.

White House advisers, divided too, seem also to lean toward a hawk-lining increase in military pressure in Vietnam over attempts to lure the Communists to a conference table with a dove-like approach.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, presidential adviser Walt Rostow and most of the generals and admirals are acknowledged hawks. Ambassadors Arthur Goldberg and W. Averell Harriman, along with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, are considered doves for the most part.

The President, who must make the final decision to escalate or not, keeps ordering more troops into the field, while at the same time holding out the olive branch to the Communist government of North Vietnam.

One thing is certain. Failure to achit peace talks in the new year will increase demands for escalation to end the war militarily.

Already, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee has called for "the absolute annihi-

Gustave Doerr Turns 100 in City's Hospital

Gustave Doerr is observing his 100th birthday today at the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he is a patient.

His daughter, Mrs. Irma Meagher, 304 Helen St., is a patient at the hospital.

Both are suffering from slight attacks of flu, but were well enough to be brought to the hospital dining room today at 2 p.m. for a birthday observance.

Doerr was born in Lu-Newaerville, Switzerland. He came to America in 1883.

In August of 1885, he married Emma Kuehne in Chicago. She and four children are deceased.

He is a member of First Methodist church, the Masonic and Elks lodges.

Crippled Sail Boat Strands 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting high winds and heavy seas, two merchant ships plowed through the North Atlantic today to the rescue of 10 persons aboard a crippled 70-foot yawl.

Alerted by a low-flying Coast Guard aircraft, the British merchant vessel Cotswold and the German freighter Hille Oldendorff turned in the predawn hours toward the storm-tossed yawl, the Petrel.

The Cotswold radioed the Coast Guard in New York that she was 66 miles from the Petrel and was making 10 knots in heavy seas. She said she expected to reach the yawl at 1 p.m. The German ship, 70 miles from the scene, reported she was making slow progress.

The Petrel — shipping water, her masts carried away and her radio dead after getting off a distress signal - was 360 miles southeast of New York.

The 10 aboard the Petrel, mostly college students, were on a holiday cruise from Stamford, Conn., to Bermuda. They left Stamford Monday.

The ship is captained by Gordon Van Ness, 26 of Yonkers, N.Y., a medical student at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. His father, and the ship's owner, Hans Van Ness of Yonkers, said he was confident the Petrel would stay afloat.

He said his son is "a good seaman who has been on the seas since he was 6 years old."

Among the crew are five of the skipper's fellow students, his sister, Heide, 17, and her girl friend, and a couple from Bermuda. All were reported in satisfactory condition.

The crew bailed the ship by hand through the night and into the morning hours.

A Coast Guard amphibious craft circling overhead dropped five self - contained gasoline-powered pumps into the choppy waters near the yawl. But by midmorning the pumps were still bobbing about out of reach.

Besides the two merchant ships, the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant was en route and was expected to reach the scene at 10 p.m.

A Coast Guard plane alerted the merchant ships by flying low and blinking its landing lights. A Coast Guard spokesman explained that many small ships man their radios only eight hours a day.

The Hille Oldendorff was the first to respond, radioing at 5:45 a.m. that she was turning toward the Petrel.

The yawl's sails had been ripped by a 30-knot wind with higher gusts. Her auxiliary engine was dead and her pumps had failed. Her radio went dead at 2 a.less than two hours after her first distress call was heard.

The Coast Guard plane that flew over hundreds of square miles of ocean trying to attract the small ships, had been dispatched from Elizabeth City, N.C. The amphibious craft that dropped the pumps, came from Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Sonic Boom Alert Issued

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Sonic booms will be heard between Jan. 1 and March 31 in a section of eastern Missouri, the Strategic Air Command said Thursday.

The area concerned includes northern Franklin County and the towns of Jackson, Ste. Genevieve, Crystal City and Festus.

Air Force spokesmen said the sonic booms would come from B-58 Hustler bombing training flights. Spokesmen said there should not be more than two such flights a day in the area.

Three Killed In Collision On Hill Top

PERRYVILLE, MO. AP - A head-on collision at the crest of a hill Thursday took three lives and injured six other persons.

Five minutes after the crash a third car plowed into the wreck, injuring the driver.

Killed in the collision were Everett Brewster, 16, and Wanda Brewster, 24, both of St. Mary's, Mo., and Larry J. Cissell, 20, of Perryville.

Others in the Brewster car were Irene Brewster, 46, Kathy Brewster, 3, and Renee Brewster, 1; Rose Caputo, 22, St. Louis, and Sharon Cissel of St. Mary's (no relation to Larry Cissell). All were hospitalized with minor injuries.

The Highway Patrol said cars driven by Everett Brewster and Francis Robinson collided on Missouri 51, about a mile south of Perryville. Larry Cissell was a passenger in the Robinson car. Robinson also was hospitalized.

Terra Mungle of Patton was the driver of the third car that ran into the wreck after cresting the hill. She suffered minor injuries.

The collision occurred at 6:10 p.m. on highway 51, one and one-half miles south of Perryville.

Young Brewster was driving a 1957 Chevrolet. Robinson was driving a 1956 Chevrolet.

The bodies were taken to the Bey Funeral Home.

Robinson suffered face cuts; Irene Brewster, internal injuries; Kathy Brewster, and Renee Brewster, bruises; Sharon Cissell, head injury and a fractured ankle, and Rose Caputo, broken leg.

Terra Mungle, was driving a 1966 Ford. She suffered an injured knee.

The injured were taken to the Perry County Memorial hospital in Perryville.

Danny Strebler, 20, Chaffee, driving a 1963 Corvair, swerved to miss a dog, while driving on highway M, five miles west of Scott City, Thursday at 2 p.m. He lost control of his car and ran off the highway.

A passenger in the car, Kelly Swan, 19, Chaffee, received cuts on his hand. He was treated at a Chaffee clinic.

In a collision today at 1:25 a.m., a 1962 Mercury, driven by Jerry Fitzgerald, 18, Cape Girardeau, failed to make a curve and went out of control. Fitzgerald ran off the road, overturned and his car struck a utiliy pole. He received right leg cuts.

A passenger, Daniel Phelps, 21, Cape Girardeau, received leg bruises.

Both received treatment at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Fitzgerald was arrested for careless and imprudent driving and excessive speed.

Malden Police Look for Auto

MALDEN -- The highway patrol reports that Malden police are looking for a stolen car occupied by three juveniles.

Two of the youths were 16 to 17 years old. The third one is ten years old.

A license plate check showed the car belongs to Minnie Bates, Cape Girardeau. She discovered her car was missing after being informed by police.

One of the youths was four feet, six inches tall and the other two five feet seven or eight inches tall. Two of the youths had dark hair. One was wearing a brown shirt.

Windshield Frost Blamed for Crash

DEXTER -- A 1956 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by Paul A. Dees, 29, was demolished in a collision Thursday at the corner of Locust and St. Francis streets, with a car driven by Thomas E. Cooper, 22, also of Dexter.

The accident was blamed on frost on the Dees' windshield which reduced visibility. There was only minor damage to the Cooper car.

Neither driver was injured.

Zoo Animal Drowns

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Anna, a baby walrus, drowned in her swimming pool at the St. Louis zoo Thursday leaving the zoo with only one walrus - a male named Siegfried.

Assistant Zoo Director Henry Sanders said the seven-month-old baby walrus was held under water by suction over a pool drain. The walrus drowned before she could be rescued.

Lull Precedes Truce

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Small-scale fighting flared in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta and the central lowlands today on the eve of the two-day New Year's truce.

In the air war, bad weather again curtailed raids on North Vietnam, but U.S. B52 bombers made three attacks on Communist positions in South Vietnam.

With the New Year's cease-fire scheduled to start at 6 p.m. EST Friday, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky threatened to cancel the four-day truce promised for the Vietnamese New Year in February unless the Viet Cong observe the truce this weekend better than they did the Christmas cease-fire.

In Saigon, American sources reported that a five-day port strike protesting the replacement of Vietnamese dockworkers by American servicemen had been settled. The settlement came near the end of an ineffective 12-hour general strike called in Saigon by the Vietnamese Confederation of Labor.

South Vietnamese troops clashed in three brisk firefights with Viet Cong guerrillas in the Mekong Delta and reported killing 45 of the enemy. Government casualties were reported moderate in one clash 65 miles southwest of Saigon and light in two actions 54 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. headquarters reported the loss of an Air Force propeller-driven Skyraider 22 miles northeast of Phan Thiet on the South China Sea Coast. A spokesman said the plane was not shot down and the pilot was rescued.

In two of the day's three B52 raids, the bombers struck before dawn at North Vietnamese supply areas in Kontum Province in the central highlands.

The double raid was followed at midday by a B52 strike eight miles west of Bong Son, on the central coast about 280 miles northeast of Saigon. A spokesman said the target of this raid was a battalion-size force of North Vietnamese troops, or about 500 men.

This is the area where the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division have clashed throughout the week with North Vietnamese regulars. U.S. headquarters said the cavalrymen killed 74 North Vietnamese in scattered light contacts through Thursday.

In the air over North Vietnam Thursday, U.S. bomber pilots flew 73 missions against lines of communication and storage areas, most of them along the North Vietnamese coastline and in the southern panhandle. Pilots reported 13 barges, six trucks, two bridges and five storage or staging areas damaged or destroyed.

U. S. officials said the 5,000 striking dockworkers in Saigon would return to work tonight and an agreement would be signed Saturday.

The stevedores walked out Monday in protest against the replacement of Vietnamese by American servicemen at the Newport dock, a new U.S. military port facility. The sources said the U.S. military port command had agreed to hire 288 replaced dockworkers to work on Saigon's commercial docks.

GI in Vietnam Has Surprise Christmas Visit

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. (AP) - Beverly Hansen just came back from delivering a Christmas tree and a few presents to her 20-year-old brother. It was an 18,000-mile trip.

Her brother, Army Pfc. Robert Hansen, is stationed at An Khe in South Vietnam.

Beverly's arrival was a complete surprise to her brother. "That it worked out over Christmas was fantastic," she said.

The 23-year-old secretary to an airlines president had told her brother she would come to Vietnam when they could arrange time together.

"He said he was getting in from 75 days in the field about Dec. 20, so that's when I planned the trip," Beverly said. "It was just a hope and a prayer."

She had no hotel reservations but got the last available room. Through the Red Cross, she arranged to meet Robert in Saigon.

She spent 10 days waiting for Robert to arrive, killing time by touring the area - once in a general's helicopter. She and Robert had three days together.

"We had fun, laughed a lot," she recalled. "But we were never able to really relax; you are never able to forget there is war going on."

Niteries Expect Boom in New Year's Eve Revelry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All signs point to a revelry boom New Year's Eve that could be the biggest in fun and money since World War II. You could pay anywhere from a buck to a hundred dollars for the night out.

Apparently ready to put aside serious thoughts of the war in Vietnam and other world and domestic tension, many Americans seemed determined to make a big night of it.

"The people seem determined to celebrate and do their worrying on Jan. 3," said Phil Miles, vice president of New York's Brody Corporation, which manages the Rainbow Room and the Rainbow Grill among other establishments.

Generally, prices will run about the same as last year, and in some instances slightly lower, an Associated Press sampling of night clubs, hotels and restaurants across the country showed.

Peter Redfearn, resident manager of the Hotel Claremont in Berkeley, Calif., explaining why the hotel's Churchill Room cocktail party had been reduced from $10 a couple to $7.50, said: "You might call it tight money. We're trying to get them to loosen it up."

A spokesman at San Francisco's Hotel Fairmount, explaining why it is sticking to last year's price of $25 per person in the Venetian Room for dinner - dancing and $15 per person in the Tonga Room, said: "We could have raised prices and still filled the rooms. But many of the celebrants are those who come every year. So we're going to stick to the old price."

In Chicago, the top is $100 a couple, including tax and tip, at Maxim's de Paris in the Astor Tower Hotel. The price, the same as last year, includes a gourmet dinner with Russian caviar, dancing, imported French favors and a luxury suite in which a champagne breakfast is served in bed.

Or you can skip the suite and bubbly in bed and pay only $50 a couple, or after 2 a.m. can have a special breakfast with dancing for $10 a couple plus tax and tip.

In New Orleans, prices will range from $25 per person at the Blue Room in the Roosevelt Hotel, where singer Nancy Ames is appearing, to $1 per person at Preservation Hall in the French Quarter where Negro bands play traditional Dixieland jazz. No drinks are sold at Preservation Hall and patrons must sit on benches.

Many big-name entertainers, including Juliet Prowse, Xavier Cugat, Mort Sahl, Jimmy Durante, Debbie Reynolds and Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme,' are appearing in gambling casinos on Las Vegas' Strip. You can get a look at them for $25 a head.

Rooms in the major hotels in Vegas have been sold out for a month.

In some spots, dinner and dancing runs $10 and $15 a head, including favors and gifts for the ladies.

The Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles is sold out. Singer Ella Fitzgerald is appearing there, and it will cost $29.50 a head for dinner, tax and gratuities, the same as last year. Drinks are extra.

For the first time in several years, many of the major hotel spots in Los Angeles are reported sold out. The average drink will cost from $1.25 to $1.50 in the better places.

R. E. Bredeson, owner of several clubs and lounges in Dallas, Tex., said: "More people are complaining about money this year than before. But I think there still will be a bigger turnout this year because it is a Saturday night."

At one Philadelphia spot, bar stools are selling for $7.50 each, which includes five drinks but no dinner. Top Philadelphia night clubs expect capacity crowds.

In New York, dinner-dance prices are as high as $100 a couple, with $50 a couple fairly common.

An official of New York Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians said there might be some labor shortages among the 30,000 members for the first time in 20 years. He said many musicians were being hired for private parties, as well as for clubs, hotels, and restaurants.

One Atlanta strip spot is featuring amateur night for strippers, and the woman manager says she expects several to appear.

"And some of them are very good, honey," she said.

Not All Fallout Snow

Prospects for a bright Christmas seemed as unlikely as the chances for a white Christmas for the Tommy Lane family of eight who lost their house and all personal belongings Dec. 12.

The weather forecast was for clearing and sunny skies no snow in sight, the day of the fire.

The family had escaped injury early that morning, but were forced to seek shelter in the home of a relative until they found another place to live. They had managed only to save a coat and the bed clothing the children were wearing. Tommy Lane was at work.

The change in the weather almost coincided with the change in luck for the family.

After an appeal for food, clothing and furniture by the city welfare center in the Daily Standard Dec. 21, townspeople responded generously. It snowed four inches Dec. 23.

Several gave food and clothing. A few gave money. Two church groups contributed items, Mrs. Lane said.

The family enjoyed a good Christmas in a house they rented at 1404 Osage.

"We wish to thank everyone, Mrs. Lane said. Most persons who donated to the family didn't leave a name, so we just want to say thanks to everyone."

Mrs. Lane said the only thing the family needs now is dressers to store clothing.

Pay Increase Eyed for Seven Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 7 million workers will be up for wage hikes in 1967 in new labor talks or previously negotiated contracts, and James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union leads off the parade.

The Labor Department reports the round of major labor negotiations will be the biggest in recent years, covering airline pilots, auto workers, food processors, railroad employes and workers in textile, rubber, paper, telephone and many other industries.

The government's figure cover only contracts involving 1,000 or more workers and smaller cases will bring the total number of workers involved considerably higher.

Of the 7 million workers listed, more than 3 million will be involved in new contract talks and nearly 4 million will get wage increases negotiated earlier in long-term contracts.

Hoffa, starting negotiations next month for some 450,000 Teamsters under his union's national trucking contract, opens the first of the major new contract negotiations.

Reportedly planning to demand a 7 per cent hike in wages and fringe benefits, but possibly settling for 5 per cent, the Teamsters will set the tone for the size of expected 1967 labor demands.

Although wage settlements averaged 3.7 per cent in 1966, the pattern moved toward 5 per cent in the latter part of the year in major agreements covering airlines mechanics and electrical industry workers.

Weather

Increasing cloudiness and not quite so cold tonight. Chance of rain or snow during the night and into Saturday. Cool Saturday. Low tonight 25 to 30. High Saturday in lower 30s. Sunday partly cloudy and little temperature change. Precipitation probabilities 40 per cent tonight, 50 per cent Saturday.

FIVE-DAY FORECAST

Temperatures Saturday through Wednesday will average 2 to 8 degrees below normal. Normal lows 20-32, normal highs, in mid 40s. Chance of rain Saturday and again Monday turning to snow late Monday with amounts one-quarter to one-half inch.

HIGH AND LOW YESTERDAY

Uncle Turns Up to Claim Orphan Hero

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard Campos, an orphan who lived alone and unwanted and ended his 26 years on a Vietnam battlefield, belongs to somebody at last.

The Army in Washington announced Thursday that a three-week search for a living relative of the sergeant's was over. An uncle, James Diego Campos, a Sacramento, Calif. farm worker, was declared legal next of kin.

The soldier's body had lain unclaimed in the mortuary of the Oakland Army Terminal. He was killed Dec. 6 on a combat patrol.

Now, Richard, a ward of the State of California much of his life, has found in death somebody who cares. His country will repay his devotion with a military funeral and an honored grave.

Last week, the country was stirred by the news that a man who died for his country lay unclaimed.

It seemed that Campos had no living relative. Campos mother died when he was 2. There was no record of his father.

At 6th Army Headquarters, officers despaired of finding a relative.

"If any man should now come forward — and I don't think he will — he certainly would have a hard time proving anything."

But proof was there, in the baptismal certificate offered by James Diego Campos which proved he was the brother of Nieves Campos, Richard's mother who died at age 19.

James Diego Campos, found Sunday in a Sacramento hotel room, said he hadn't seen Richard in 15 years and had not kept in touch because he was a farm worker "moving around all the time."

In its announcement, the Army expressed "appreciation to news media which helped locate Sgt. Campos' uncle."

The Army was quoted as saying the uncle said he planned to bury his nephew in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Mrs. Powell Absent Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - It was three times and out today for Mrs. Adam Clayton Powell as she turned down once more a date with a congressional investigating committee.

Chairman Wayne L. Lays, D-Ohio, said that was her last chance and he will recommend she be removed from her $20,500-a-year job on her husband's congressional staff.

Mrs. Powell, who lives in Puerto Rico, was subpoenaed to appear before Hays' subcommittee in its investigation of Powell's payroll and travel expenses.

She did not show up on two previous dates set for her and was given a final chance today. The subcommittee is winding up its inquiry and writing a report due to be printed Jan. 3.

Through attorneys, Mrs. Powell had said she was unable to make travel arrangements so speedily. Hays said airline tickets bought by the subcommittee for her and her 4-year-old son had been available in San Juan for days.

Before today's third nonappearance by Mrs. Powell, Hays had said if she did not show up he would recommend not only that she be fired but that she be cited for contempt of Congress.

Essex Man Cuts Arm on Wire

Hearnes Praises Toll Turnpikes, Defends Criticism of LBJ Policies

By Jerry Obermark

A glimpse into the future possibilities of toll roads without a tax increase for Missouri and reflections on criticisms of the Johnson administration were made by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Thursday night at the SEMO Shrine club's ladies night banquet.

The governor opened his remarks by stating that as of Jan. 11, he will have completed two years in the governor's office.

"In that time I have made about 700 speeches, but the story behind how this appearance came about was most unusual and one you normally would not believe," the governor said.

Club President, Melvin Dace, sent the audience of 140 persons into rollicking laughter by introducing the governor's wife as "Miss Peggy Hearnes." Her name is Betty, the governor said: "Now I know you'll believe me."

When Dace requested the governor to speak he said he wanted to make it at a convenient time for the governor.

He told me: "We want a good speaker. No, we want someone like you who'll draw a crowd," the governor related.

The governor, who came to Sikeston from Charleston, where he is spending the holidays, turned to the subject of toll roads for Missouri.

He explained that since he took office many things happened that he expected and many things occurred that no one could have foreseen.

Toll roads as a need for the state is something, he said, he foresaw as a need back in 1953, during his second term as a representative from Mississippi county. He stated that a bill proposing toll roads was defeated at that time and he told himself then, if he ever had an opportunity to exert more influence in bringing about toll roads he would.

"I assure you that the governor's office in 1967, will be fully behind toll roads for Missouri," Hearnes said.

An interim committee of Missouri legislators is studying the possibility of toll roads and a bill proposing toll roads, or turnpikes likely will be introduced in 1967, he indicated.

The plans for construction of toll roads for the state call for financing without an increase in the gasoline tax, the governor added.

"I don't believe that Missourians would stand for that. There may be an increase of one cent in the gas tax in the next few years, but it would not be for toll roads. It would be for maintenance of existing roads," Hearnes said.

Three routes for toll roads are being considered, although at this stage they might be termed "dreams", he noted.

The routes being considered are: running from Kansas City to Arkansas, from Kansas City to Southeast Missouri by way of the Ozarks, and from Kansas City to Chicago running north of Hannibal.

The bare bones outline of how the toll roads would be financed is as follows: creation of a toll road authority within the state highway commission.

Other states have two separate bodies often at odds with each other, the governor explained.

The highway commission could issue bonds for the construction of toll roads, then lease the bonds to the highway department. The highway department collect the tolls and pay off the lease.

Motorists, he said, would have the choice of paying one or two cents a mile and travel modern four-lane highways, or weave their way through existing two-lane routes.

"I would prefer to pay the toll," Hearnes said. "I believe if Missouri is to progress this has to be."

Turning from toll roads to reaction from his critical comments about the Johnson administration at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., at a governors' conference and subsequent criticism of policies of the administration at a Texas White House meeting with President Johnson, Hearnes said he had not changed his mind.

Hearnes said he felt that the results of the Nov. 8 election indicated a need for a readjustment of domestic spending policies.

"As I told them in Texas, to say we spent $22 million fighting poverty, doesn't mean a thing, until you say how the money was spent."

Hearnes pointed out that he meant no criticism of President Johnson as a man. "But there comes a point, I feel, when constructive criticism is necessary," he said.

Hearnes said he felt it was time for a readjustment in policy on the federal level. He said he felt this is what the last election indicated, and he felt the President should be told this.

He explained that when a politician claims to be either a conservative or a liberal, he constantly must defend that label. He said he is against such labeling.

The liberal always promises action. The conservative is usually against things.

The Nov. 8 relection returns reflected a nationwide vote against liberal failure to solve all problems, in my opinion, he said.

As a politician I would be deceptive, if I said that I was not interested in how the people reacted after the news media circulated the story, Hearnes said.

"But from the numerous letters and personal reactions, I still feel I was right," he said, "I feel it was something that needed to be said."

"Seventeen of the 18 governors in Virginia agreed with my position," he said. "Since the stories appeared, we have received mail expressing agreement and disagreement of my criticisms."

Hearnes said he felt he expressed the majority opinion of Missourians, and the reactions received since, have confirmed that conviction.

The federal government programs are fine, "if they tell we have so much money to fight poverty," he said. "But don't tell the states -- you have to take it.

"We want them to say-here is so much to fight poverty. Take it and fight poverty from the state level," he continued.

The governor said, he doesn't think President Johnson will penalize Missouri for what he said.

"If the penalty for telling the truth, as I see it, causes us to lose federal funds, then let's lose them now," he said.

"The right to stand up and be counted and to say what we think must be preserved. If it is ever lost, I not only want to retire from the democratic party, but from politics."

Hawk-Dove Balance Of Power Unsteady

WASHINGTON AP -- Will President Johnson's administration be dominated by the hawks or the doves in 1967?

There are sharp differences in the ranks, but the prevailing attitude in Congress appears to be hawk-ish.

White House advisers, divided too, seem also to lean toward a hawk-lining increase in military pressure in Vietnam over attempts to lure the Communists to a conference table with a dove - like approach.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, presidential adviser Walt Rostow and most of the generals and admirals are acknowledged hawks. Ambassadors Arthur Goldberg and W. Averell Harriman, along with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, are considered doves for the most part.

The President, who must make the final decision to escalate or not, keeps ordering more troops into the field, while at the same time holding out the olive branch to the Communist government of North Vietnam.

One thing is certain. Failure to achit peace talks in the new year will increase demands for escalation to end the war militarily.

Already, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee has called for "the absolute annihi-

Gustave Doerr Turns 100 in City's Hospital

Gustave Doerr is observing his 100th birthday today at the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where he is a patient.

His daughter, Mrs. Irma Meagher, 304 Helen St., is a patient at the hospital.

Both are suffering from slight attacks of flu, but were well enough to be brought to the hospital dining room today at 2 p.m. for a birthday observance.

Doerr was born in Lu-Newaerville, Switzerland. He came to America in 1883.

In August of 1885, he married Emma Kuehne in Chicago. She and four children are deceased.

He is a member of First Methodist church, the Masonic and Elks lodges.

Niteries Expect Boom in New Year's Eve Revelry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All signs point to a revelry boom New Year's Eve that could be the biggest in fun and money since World War II. You could pay anywhere from a buck to a hundred dollars for the night out.

Apparently ready to put aside serious thoughts of the war in Vietnam and other world and domestic tension, many Americans seemed determined to make a big night of it.

"The people seem determined to celebrate and do their worrying on Jan. 3," said Phil Miles, vice president of New York's Brody Corporation, which manages the Rainbow Room and the Rainbow Grill among other establishments.

Generally, prices will run about the same as last year, and in some instances slightly lower, an Associated Press sampling of night clubs, hotels and restaurants across the country showed.

Peter Redfearn, resident manager of the Hotel Claremont in Berkeley, Calif., explaining why the hotel's Churchill Room cocktail party had been reduced from $10 a couple to $7.50, said: "You might call it tight money. We're trying to get them to loosen it up."

A spokesman at San Francisco's Hotel Fairmount, explaining why it is sticking to last year's price of $25 per person in the Venetian Room for dinner - dancing and $15 per person in the Tonga Room, said: "We could have raised prices and still filled the rooms. But many of the celebrants are those who come every year. So we're going to stick to the old price."

In Chicago, the top is $100 a couple, including tax and tip, at Maxim's de Paris in the Astor Tower Hotel. The price, the same as last year, includes a gourmet dinner with Russian caviar, dancing, imported French favors and a luxury suite in which a champagne breakfast is served in bed.

Or you can skip the suite and bubbly in bed and pay only $50 a couple, or after 2 a.m. can have a special breakfast with dancing for $10 a couple plus tax and tip.

In New Orleans, prices will range from $25 per person at the Blue Room in the Roosevelt Hotel, where singer Nancy Ames is appearing, to $1 per person at Preservation Hall in the French Quarter where Negro bands play traditional Dixieland jazz. No drinks are sold at Preservation Hall and patrons must sit on benches.

Many big-name entertainers, including Juliet Prowse, Xavier Cugat, Mort Sahl, Jimmy Durante, Debbie Reynolds and Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme,' are appearing in gambling casinos on Las Vegas' Strip. You can get a look at them for $25 a head.

Rooms in the major hotels in Vegas have been sold out for a month.

In some spots, dinner and dancing runs $10 and $15 a head, including favors and gifts for the ladies.

The Ambassador Hotel's Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles is sold out. Singer Ella Fitzgerald is appearing there, and it will cost $29.50 a head for dinner, tax and gratuities, the same as last year. Drinks are extra.

For the first time in several years, many of the major hotel spots in Los Angeles are reported sold out. The average drink will cost from $1.25 to $1.50 in the better places.

R. E. Bredeson, owner of several clubs and lounges in Dallas, Tex., said: "More people are complaining about money this year than before. But I think there still will be a bigger turnout this year because it is a Saturday night."

At one Philadelphia spot, bar stools are selling for $7.50 each, which includes five drinks but no dinner. Top Philadelphia night clubs expect capacity crowds.

In New York, dinner-dance prices are as high as $100 a couple, with $50 a couple fairly common.

An official of New York Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians said there might be some labor shortages among the 30,000 members for the first time in 20 years. He said many musicians were being hired for private parties, as well as for clubs, hotels, and restaurants.

One Atlanta strip spot is featuring amateur night for strippers, and the woman manager says she expects several to appear.

"And some of them are very good, honey," she said.

Crippled Sail Boat Strands 10

NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting high winds and heavy seas, two merchant ships plowed through the North Atlantic today to the rescue of 10 persons aboard a crippled 70-foot yawl.

Alerted by a low-flying Coast Guard aircraft, the British merchant vessel Cotswold and the German freighter Hille Oldendorff turned in the predawn hours toward the storm-tossed yawl, the Petrel.

The Cotswold radioed the Coast Guard in New York that she was 66 miles from the Petrel and was making 10 knots in heavy seas. She said she expected to reach the yawl at 1 p.m. The German ship, 70 miles from the scene, reported she was making slow progress.

The Petrel — shipping water, her masts carried away and her radio dead after getting off a distress signal - was 360 miles southeast of New York.

The 10 aboard the Petrel, mostly college students, were on a holiday cruise from Stamford, Conn., to Bermuda. They left Stamford Monday.

The ship is captained by Gordon Van Ness, 26 of Yonkers, N.Y., a medical student at Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. His father, and the ship's owner, Hans Van Ness of Yonkers, said he was confident the Petrel would stay afloat.

He said his son is "a good seaman who has been on the seas since he was 6 years old."

Among the crew are five of the skipper's fellow students, his sister, Heide, 17, and her girl friend, and a couple from Bermuda. All were reported in satisfactory condition.

The crew bailed the ship by hand through the night and into the morning hours.

A Coast Guard amphibious craft circling overhead dropped five self - contained gasoline-powered pumps into the choppy waters near the yawl. But by midmorning the pumps were still bobbing about out of reach.

Besides the two merchant ships, the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant was en route and was expected to reach the scene at 10 p.m.

A Coast Guard plane alerted the merchant ships by flying low and blinking its landing lights. A Coast Guard spokesman explained that many small ships man their radios only eight hours a day.

The Hille Oldendorff was the first to respond, radioing at 5:45 a.m. that she was turning toward the Petrel.

The yawl's sails had been ripped by a 30-knot wind with higher gusts. Her auxiliary engine was dead and her pumps had failed. Her radio went dead at 2 a.less than two hours after her first distress call was heard.

The Coast Guard plane that flew over hundreds of square miles of ocean trying to attract the small ships, had been dispatched from Elizabeth City, N.C. The amphibious craft that dropped the pumps, came from Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Sonic Boom Alert Issued

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Sonic booms will be heard between Jan. 1 and March 31 in a section of eastern Missouri, the Strategic Air Command said Thursday.

The area concerned includes northern Franklin County and the towns of Jackson, Ste. Genevieve, Crystal City and Festus.

Air Force spokesmen said the sonic booms would come from B-58 Hustler bombing training flights. Spokesmen said there should not be more than two such flights a day in the area.

Three Killed In Collision On Hill Top

PERRYVILLE, MO. AP - A head-on collision at the crest of a hill Thursday took three lives and injured six other persons.

Five minutes after the crash a third car plowed into the wreck, injuring the driver.

Killed in the collision were Everett Brewster, 16, and Wanda Brewster, 24, both of St. Mary's, Mo., and Larry J. Cissell, 20, of Perryville.

Others in the Brewster car were Irene Brewster, 46, Kathy Brewster, 3, and Renee Brewster, 1; Rose Caputo, 22, St. Louis, and Sharon Cissel of St. Mary's (no relation to Larry Cissell). All were hospitalized with minor injuries.

The Highway Patrol said cars driven by Everett Brewster and Francis Robinson collided on Missouri 51, about a mile south of Perryville. Larry Cissell was a passenger in the Robinson car. Robinson also was hospitalized.

Terra Mungle of Patton was the driver of the third car that ran into the wreck after cresting the hill. She suffered minor injuries.

The collision occurred at 6:10 p.m. on highway 51, one and one-half miles south of Perryville.

Young Brewster was driving a 1957 Chevrolet. Robinson was driving a 1956 Chevrolet.

The bodies were taken to the Bey Funeral Home.

Robinson suffered face cuts; Irene Brewster, internal injuries; Kathy Brewster, and Renee Brewster, bruises; Sharon Cissell, head injury and a fractured ankle, and Rose Caputo, broken leg.

Terra Mungle, was driving a 1966 Ford. She suffered an injured knee.

The injured were taken to the Perry County Memorial hospital in Perryville.

Danny Strebler, 20, Chaffee, driving a 1963 Corvair, swerved to miss a dog, while driving on highway M, five miles west of Scott City, Thursday at 2 p.m. He lost control of his car and ran off the highway.

A passenger in the car, Kelly Swan, 19, Chaffee, received cuts on his hand. He was treated at a Chaffee clinic.

In a collision today at 1:25 a.m., a 1962 Mercury, driven by Jerry Fitzgerald, 18, Cape Girardeau, failed to make a curve and went out of control. Fitzgerald ran off the road, overturned and his car struck a utiliy pole. He received right leg cuts.

A passenger, Daniel Phelps, 21, Cape Girardeau, received leg bruises.

Both received treatment at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Fitzgerald was arrested for careless and imprudent driving and excessive speed.

Malden Police Look for Auto

MALDEN -- The highway patrol reports that Malden police are looking for a stolen car occupied by three juveniles.

Two of the youths were 16 to 17 years old. The third one is ten years old.

A license plate check showed the car belongs to Minnie Bates, Cape Girardeau. She discovered her car was missing after being informed by police.

One of the youths was four feet, six inches tall and the other two five feet seven or eight inches tall. Two of the youths had dark hair. One was wearing a brown shirt.

Windshield Frost Blamed for Crash

DEXTER -- A 1956 Chevrolet station wagon, driven by Paul A. Dees, 29, was demolished in a collision Thursday at the corner of Locust and St. Francis streets, with a car driven by Thomas E. Cooper, 22, also of Dexter.

The accident was blamed on frost on the Dees' windshield which reduced visibility. There was only minor damage to the Cooper car.

Neither driver was injured.

Zoo Animal Drowns

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Anna, a baby walrus, drowned in her swimming pool at the St. Louis zoo Thursday leaving the zoo with only one walrus - a male named Siegfried.

Assistant Zoo Director Henry Sanders said the seven-month-old baby walrus was held under water by suction over a pool drain. The walrus drowned before she could be rescued.

Lull Precedes Truce

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Small-scale fighting flared in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta and the central lowlands today on the eve of the two-day New Year's truce.

In the air war, bad weather again curtailed raids on North Vietnam, but U.S. B52 bombers made three attacks on Communist positions in South Vietnam.

With the New Year's cease-fire scheduled to start at 6 p.m. EST Friday, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky threatened to cancel the four-day truce promised for the Vietnamese New Year in February unless the Viet Cong observe the truce this weekend better than they did the Christmas cease-fire.

In Saigon, American sources reported that a five-day port strike protesting the replacement of Vietnamese dockworkers by American servicemen had been settled. The settlement came near the end of an ineffective 12-hour general strike called in Saigon by the Vietnamese Confederation of Labor.

South Vietnamese troops clashed in three brisk firefights with Viet Cong guerrillas in the Mekong Delta and reported killing 45 of the enemy. Government casualties were reported moderate in one clash 65 miles southwest of Saigon and light in two actions 54 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. headquarters reported the loss of an Air Force propeller-driven Skyraider 22 miles northeast of Phan Thiet on the South China Sea Coast. A spokesman said the plane was not shot down and the pilot was rescued.

In two of the day's three B52 raids, the bombers struck before dawn at North Vietnamese supply areas in Kontum Province in the central highlands.

The double raid was followed at midday by a B52 strike eight miles west of Bong Son, on the central coast about 280 miles northeast of Saigon. A spokesman said the target of this raid was a battalion-size force of North Vietnamese troops, or about 500 men.

This is the area where the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division have clashed throughout the week with North Vietnamese regulars. U.S. headquarters said the cavalrymen killed 74 North Vietnamese in scattered light contacts through Thursday.

In the air over North Vietnam Thursday, U.S. bomber pilots flew 73 missions against lines of communication and storage areas, most of them along the North Vietnamese coastline and in the southern panhandle. Pilots reported 13 barges, six trucks, two bridges and five storage or staging areas damaged or destroyed.

U. S. officials said the 5,000 striking dockworkers in Saigon would return to work tonight and an agreement would be signed Saturday.

The stevedores walked out Monday in protest against the replacement of Vietnamese by American servicemen at the Newport dock, a new U.S. military port facility. The sources said the U.S. military port command had agreed to hire 288 replaced dockworkers to work on Saigon's commercial docks.

GI in Vietnam Has Surprise Christmas Visit

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. (AP) - Beverly Hansen just came back from delivering a Christmas tree and a few presents to her 20-year-old brother. It was an 18,000-mile trip.

Her brother, Army Pfc. Robert Hansen, is stationed at An Khe in South Vietnam.

Beverly's arrival was a complete surprise to her brother. "That it worked out over Christmas was fantastic," she said.

The 23-year-old secretary to an airlines president had told her brother she would come to Vietnam when they could arrange time together.

"He said he was getting in from 75 days in the field about Dec. 20, so that's when I planned the trip," Beverly said. "It was just a hope and a prayer."

She had no hotel reservations but got the last available room. Through the Red Cross, she arranged to meet Robert in Saigon.

She spent 10 days waiting for Robert to arrive, killing time by touring the area - once in a general's helicopter. She and Robert had three days together.

"We had fun, laughed a lot," she recalled. "But we were never able to really relax; you are never able to forget there is war going on."

Look who's talking!

After the Atomic Energy Commission awarded its atom smasher site to Weston, Ill., near Chicago, U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long of Missouri protested that the agency "violated the trust of the American taxpayer by ignoring vital cost factors."

This utterance is typical of the dedicated lip service that Long has given Missouri citizens through his term in office. He protests after the barn door has been opened and the horse has disappeared over the horizon. This is as far as his devotion to either the nation's economy or the welfare of the taxpayers goes. He certainly hasn't done anything to save any money.

Senator Long has been a rubber stamp for the free wheeling, reckless and irresponsible spending programs of President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society. He has pulled the "yes" voting levers with the careless abandon of a child standing in front of a slot machine with $100 worth of quarters.

Since when has the federal government paid any attention to either cost factors or waste of the taxpayers money? Since when has this been news?

It hasn't been recently.

The Long exercise in futility in belated protest about the atom smasher tastes of sour grapes. The fact that he issued it and expects his constituents to be impressed by it shows that he regards them as nitwits.

Here is a fine example of the kettle calling the pot black.

Nice going, Senator Long. Keep up the noble effort to preserve a sound currency.

POST YULE NOTE TO SANTA

Dear Mr. Santa Claus, Sir:

Here's a switch - a letter to you AFTER Christmas!

But it seems only fair that when so many write to ask, some should write to thank you.

You did a great job again, Santa. The papers say you put out more than ever before - billions and billions of dollars worth.

You'd think you'd be getting nothing but rave reviews. But now that the Christmas spirit has worn off a bit, you may be hearing some Monday morning quarterbacking on your performance.

Some say you're just a big, fat front for crass commercialism - that Christmas is nothing but a souped-up sales campaign.

Others are complaining that to commemorate the birth of the Prince of Peace you bring toys of war - guns, bombs, bullets and bazookas. And, in truth, it does seem weird.

Still others are interested in the circumstance that in "The Night Before Christmas" you are credited with an 8-deerpower sleigh, whereas only two years earlier an artist had depicted you as driving only one dinky little deer.

The inference seems to be that you either had an overenthusiastic press agent in "The Night Before Christmas" or you latched on to an awful lot of deer fast.

So there!

So what?

Suppose Christmas does help business, Suppose some of the toys are, unfortunately, a little on the sick side. Suppose, Santa, you are now living it up with 16 reindeer, or that you are down to your last one. Or that you travel dogsled.

The big thing, Santa, is that the Christmas season you symbolize enriches the lives of millions of people by causing them to forget themselves in thinking of others - that you help bring to a troubled world the therapy of good cheer and good will...that you soften hostility with kindness - and that you put hope in the hearts and a light in the eyes of young and old, if only for a little while.

For all this, Santa, we are grateful to you, and we want you to know it.

Don't let the static you may be hearing bother you too much. The reaction of your fans, of all ages, is ho, ho, ho and hum, hum, hum - a big ho-hum yawn.

Be seeing you next Christmas, Santa, old boy. Meanwhile, take care of yourself, do y'hear? We never needed you more.

Just a kid at heart,
C. L. Blanton, Jr.

NEW APPROACH TO FOOD AID

The Food for Peach program, designed originally to dispose of the country's surplus agricultural products, will enter a new phase on Sunday, Jan. 1. In extending the program for two more years, Congress last October provided $7.4 billion to finance expansion of American food production. More food must be grown if the United States is to have enough for domestic and foreign commercial sales as well as for shipment to hungry nations.

Food for Peace has been the subject of a behind-the-scene power struggle invclving the State Department and Agruculture Department. Each wants a commanding voice in determining how the program should be run. Actually, the new Food for Peace legislation gives the President power to decide how much good should go to which countries, whether it should be sold for cash or on credit, and whether recipient countries are meeting the self-help requirements of the program.

The trouble is that President Johnson has not yet handed down an executive order clearly defining the lines of authority under the new Food for Peace provisions. His failure to do so may have prompted Richard W. Reuter to assert on Dec. 2 that "You need a general for the world-wide war on hunger." Reuter resigned, effective Jan. 1, as special assistant to the Secretary of State in the Food for Peace program.

American food assistance may eventually be merged with that of other developed countries in a vast international program similar to the one operated since 1962 by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has indicated that the administration favors such an approach in dealing with India's food needs. At a news conference in Austin, Texas, Dec. 19, Freeman urged the rest of the world to match American wheat shipments to India with either grain or money. India's requirements are urgent, the Secretary added, but "the United States can't do this all alone."

Disclosure the other day, by researchers in Michigan, that young men whose blood showed a high incidence of uric acid, tended to excel in their chosen endeavors, confirms an ancient saying that gout is the disease of genius.

Uric acid in the blood gets the blame for gout, and it does seem that many gout victims have been extraordinary. For example, Benjamin Franklin, who was so afflicted with it that prisoners had had to carry him, in a sedan chair, from his quarters to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia, in 1787.

Victims will testify that gout is a high price to pay for being a genius.

NEW YORK (AP) —New Year's Eve is the best time of year for brooding and self-pity, says one of the world's foremost masochists.

"An annual orgy of self-flagellation," Dan Greenburg calls the holiday in somber appreciation.

Greenburg, a lantern-jawed young man of 30 with the most mournful face this side of a dyspeptic bloodhound, is the author —with Marcia Jacobs—of the training manual "How To Make Yourself Miserable."

One of the good things about New Year's Eve, Greenburg points out, is that you can start dreading it just as soon as Thanksgiving is over, giving you more than a month of unalloyed misery.

He ticks off what you can look forward to:

"1. The inevitable impossibility of obtaining reservations at any good restaurant or show:

"2. The prospect of being repeatedly jostled by drunken revelers or maimed by drunken drivers:

"3. The humiliation of paying $15 to $30 per person for a glass of cheap champagne, an imitation TV dinner and two dime-store party favors."

If you're single, as Greenburg is, you are permitted the additional anxiety that you'll end up with a date you'll be embarrassed to be seen with. Or maybe you won't be able to get one at all.

Last New Year's Eve, Marcia fixed Dan up with a blind date who spent the evening saying how accident - prone she was.

"I was afraid to get close to her," he recalls. "Then we went to a party with wall - to-wall people, who kept telling each other what a great time they were having. It was awful."

Naturally he is suffering immeasurably as this year's great night draws near.

But he has the same alternatives as everyone else:

"1. Deliberately ostracize yourself from your friends and be miserable alone, or

"2. Put on a funny hat and drink too much with the rest of the crowd before a day when you will have ample opportunity to regret your behavior and be sick."

Greenburg finds New Year's Day an especially rewarding time for brooding if unrealistic goals are incorporated in New Year's resolutions, such as finding the perfect mate, the perfect job; writing the great American novel, and getting even with the telephone company.

Miss Jacobs, Greenburg's partner in literary wretchedness, is a sleek, 29-year-old brunette with bangs in her eyes. She says she learned about being miserable from the movie stars she got to know during her recent stint as a theatrical press agent. She married an advertising man last July and really isn't all that miserable.

"You can say I am now working on a brilliant and sensitive first novel and a wildly funny play," she suggests.

Dan Greenburg: "And I am writing a brilliant and sensitive second novel and two wildly funny plays."

His first novel was "Kiss My Firm But Pliant Lips" and his first training manual, "How To Be a Jewish Mother," was the best-selling hard-cover book of 1965.

For "Miserable," Dan and Marcia collaborated entirely in restaurants, meeting two or three times a week to discuss it. Then Dan would go home and write it.

After it was published, people started seeking them out to confide their secret fears.

One woman hides knives under cushions all over her apartment so she'll have ready defense against intruders. Another strews crackly paper at night to give warning. Still another, despite Marcia's reasoned arguments, is going ahead with the manufacture of an electrified chair to set right inside her door. Anyone breaking in will have to take hold of it, and it won't let go.

But Dan understands these things. For a year after seeing the movie "Psycho," in which someone gets murdered in the shower, he never took a bath without singing loudly for awhile, then stopping and yelling: "Okay, I know you're out there."

"You Have a Bandaid Handy---I Hope!"

1975 WELFARE COST PUT AT $17 BILLION

Implementation by all the states of the new "Medicaid" provisions by 1975 could bring the total cost of welfare to state and local governments to $17 billion, or 170 percent more than in 1965, Tax Foundation, Inc., said.

This significant increase in the velocity of welfare spending in the next decade is projected in the non-profit organization's new study, Fiscal Outlook for State and Local Government to 1975. New Federal programs for the medically indigent are "bar far," said the Foundation, the major factor in the projected rise.

Public welfare is the third ranking category among state and local government functions, and study pointed out, and spending on welfare during the post-World War II period has proceeded at a slower pace than outlays for other functions.

But 1965-passed Federal legislation noted the study, may lead to "pronounced changes" in the scope and nature of public assistance, shifting emphasis in future programs in three ways.

(1) from financial aid for living costs ot payments for medical care; (2) from programs for the elderly to those for young persons and (3) from aid to the very poor to assistance to persons with higher standards of living.

The study noted that by 1975 an estimated 9.2 million persons will receive aid in meeting their regular living costs -- as compared with just under 8 million in 1965. And state-local spending under this phase of public welfare is anticipated to increase from 1965 levels of $4.1 billion to $5.4 billion by 1975.

The number of those receiving old-age assistance is projected to decline by 375,000 by 1975, but this decrease, noted the study, will be more than offset by an estimated rise of 1.54 million persons in the aid to dependent children category.

CASH? CAN'T REMEMBER IT!

Bankers tell us it won't be long now until we'll be using a "universal automated credit card" in place of money.

Under this system, everyone will have a number and one credit card. Yes, ONE!

No cash, no checks. Just this single card which can be used for anything and everything -- groceries, rent, clothes, entertainment, travel, loans, taxes, the works.

This is so far out it leaves most of us dizzy.

But the bankers do say one thing in relation to this development that comes in on our wave length. They say that cash is already outdated.

If by "outdated" they mean that cash is too old-fashioned to cope with today's rising prices, we dig them loud and clear.

So bring on that magic credit card, gentlemen -- and make it out of rubber so it'll stretch!

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - A House watchdog subcommittee, charged with safeguarding the taxpayers' money, has just returned from checking on the misuse of counterpart funds in Europe and the middle east. It was not very careful about the taxpayers' money which it spent.

To help watch the outflow of money, the watchdog lawmakers brought along their wives, visited the scenic high spots and didn't spare the counterpart funds. They even arranged to be entertained by the trade associations which they had come to criticize, until Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, put his foot down.

In fairness, it should be mentioned that the subcommittee actually held a few hearings while the wives were out shopping. Indeed, the spectacle of congressional junketeers pausing from their pleasure to conduct some business was so extraordinary that Time Magazine, almost in disbelief, sent a photographer to take pictures of a hearing in Rome.

The subcommittee's inspection of overseas waste started out like most other congressional junkets with cables to our embassies ranging from London to TEL AVIV, directing them to roll out the red carpet.

"Hotel reservations should be made for six twin-bed doubles," the cable instructed, "for congressmen Rosenthal, D-N.Y., Randall, D-Mo., St. Germain, D-R.I., Dole, R-Kan., Dickinson, R-Ala., and Mr. Freed (staff director), all of whom will bring their wives....

"Subcommittee chairman has requested that reservations be made at best hotels, with Excelsior specified for Rome."

PRIVATE AIR FORCE PLANE

At the last minute, Randall and St. Germain backed out. Dole and Dickinson also left their wives home. Instead, Rep. Edwards, R-Ala., and his wife were recruited for the tour.

It turned out that the committee wasn't able to get into the Excelsior and were obliged to settel for Rome's slightly less elegant Victoria Hotel. Elsewhere, they stayed only at the best places.

They took a commercial flight across the Atlantic, the taxpayers picking up the congressmen's tickets but the congressmen paying their wive's way. Once overseas, however, the Air Force was ordered to provide them with a private plane, complete with two military escort officers. The Agriculture Department also provided an escort.

The schedule called for some briefings and hearings, but more sightseeing and partying. Here was the schedule for a typical day in London:

"9:30 A.M. - Cars will pick up group (including wives) at hotel for drive to Windsor castle.

"12:30 P.M. - Lunch in Windsor or at a pub in country, and return to London.

"3 P.M. - Tour of London, including views of Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey, Parliament and Big Ben, Covent Garden, St. Paul's Cathedral, Guild Hall, Mansion House, Bank of England, Tower of London, and Tower Bridge. Without stopping, except briefly to take pictures, this tour would require about two hours, depending upon traffic.

"5 P.M. - Return to hotel. "Evening free, or unhosted dinner at typical English restaurant."

In the past two years, the subcommittee has issued two reports blasting such trade associations as the Cotton Council, Great Plains Wheat Association, Rice Council, U.S. Feed Grains Council, National Renderers Association and Soybean Council, for squandering counterpart funds.

ONE MAN PROTESTS

These private trade groups have been authorized to spend foreign currencies, owned by the American taxpayers, to promote U.S. farm products overseas. On the whole, the program has succeeded in increasing farm exports and reducing the gold drain. But the congressmen have claimed that the trade groups have also misspent thousands of dollars for vacations and parties at the taxpayers' expense.

Nevertheless, the subcommittee staff, working with the Agriculture Department, lined up for the junketing congressmen the very sort of entertainment they had previously criticized.

The congressmen and their wives were scheduled to be entertained at lunch in London by the Cotton Council, dinner in Copenhagen by Great Plains Wheat, lunch at a Swiss historical site by the Rice Council, dinner in Rome by the Feed Grains Council and National Renderers Association, and dinner in Madrid by the Soybean Council.

When Chairman Rosenthal saw the cable scheduling these free meals, he angrily ordered a clarifying cable sent off to make it clear that the subcommittee would accept no hand-outs from the trade groups it had criticized.

Most of the luncheons and dinners were held on schedule, but after each meal an aide went through the ritual of collecting from each congressman to pay the tab.

This made little difference to the taxpayers. Instead of the trade groups using counterpart funds to pay for the dinners, the congressmen either directly or indirectly used the same counterpart funds. For in each city they loaded up on U.S. owned local currencies which are set aside for junketing congressmen.

It will be interesting to see whether the subcommittee, in its next report on the misuse of counterpart funds, will mention its own abuses.

GOVERNMENT LIMITATION OF ADVERTISING

Business advertising provides the primary source of income for nearly all newspapers and magazines. It is the only important source of income for most radio and television stations.

Like every other product, newspapers and radio and television are never "free". Someone must pay for them. Subscribers alone cannot sustain most publications in view of today's high costs. Even through a pay television system, subscribers alone could never sustain a nation-wide broadcasting network.

The only alternative to advertising as a source of payment for our media of communication is tax money from government. But government control over the media of communications is one of the most obvious marks of dictatorship.

So nearly everyone in the United States gives lip service to commercial broadcasting and financially independent newspapers. But agencies of the federal government may soon take steps to extend federal control over advertising in the communications media. If done on a large scale this could mean the end of effective freedom of the press.

The Justice Department is reportedly considering anti-trust prosecutions of companies which publish much more advertising than their competitors. The Federal Trade Commission is reportedly considering action to ban the common newspaper practice of reducing the rate per inch of space when bought in large quantities. The U. S. Senate may hold hearings on a similar practice by television networks.

If the federal government may ordain how much advertising may be placed in a publication or on a broadcasting network, it will have the power to put any newspaper or broadcaster out of business whose political views the bureaucrats do not like. HLH

Addiction to Prediction Lures Columnist Into Forecast of 1967's Big Labor Stories

Washington, D.C.: --A columnist should have the strength of his predictions as well as his convictions.

But as a charter member of the International Crystal Ball Union, I must warn that our constiution states quite plainly that we are not responsible for fulfillment of any forecast. protected by this inalienable right and encouraged by confirmation of 98 per cent of last year's predictions -- including the Supreme Court's rejection of Jim Hoffa's plea and Congress' rejection of the 14-B repealer -- this columnist sees the following in 1967:

Labor's big drive will be for the wiping out of payment by the hour or the piece. It will push -- and strike, especially in the automobile industry -- for payment by the week, payment by the year and payment for life regardless of the work available. Labor will demand a guaranteed minimum income whether or not the production lines are moving.

There will be strange new demands -- "judicare," for example, which will operate in the courts like medicare does in the hospitals. . .Unions will seek new contract clauses banning "electronic eavesdropping" or closed - circuit television observing in the plants.

Labor will become the second biggest story on the home front, running only slightly behind war and peace. 1967 will be the toughest year on the strike and union fronts -- with some 2,000,000 unionists chanting for more cash. They've had the fringes -- free medicine, pensions, psychiatry, podiatry, ophthomology. They want cash -- big chunks of it.

There will be turbulence in the air when the teamsters and railroad people and communications workers, textile hands, rubber workers, newspaper employes, and at year's end -- the New York City transit workers again -- open their contract offensives.

But the toughest month of the year will be September. That's when Walter Reuther will begin real hardnose bargaining for some 650,000 auto workers in an industry where the profit gap is narrowing.

It will be the loneliest month of the year for Lyndon Johnson. For then there will be auto strikes -- lots of them -- affecting the nation, the military, prosperity and posterity. That month could be the making or unmaking of a President.

Will he clobber? If he does, will it help or hurt him? Will he aid Reuther or will he call him in for a showdown? Or will he demand new emergency strike laws?

If the war goes well, President Johnson will argue. If the war is hell, he'll clobber -- even his old friend Walter Reuther. He'll use proposals brought in by the "task force" -- the full team is named here for the first time: Under Secretary of State Nick Katzenbach, former office of Price Administration counsel David Ginsburg, Harvard's Prof. John Dunlop, Stanford professor J. Keith Mann and UCLA Labor-Management Institute director Ben Aaron, acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark (who will become A.G.) and "caretaker" Jim Reynolds.

But Congress will not pass a tough anti-strike statue. The President does not need any. He has all the power necessary.

Mr. Johnson will depend on what happens next Sept., Oct. and Nov. for new imagery and popularity. Prediction: He will be tough and handle labor more conservatively.

There will be a reshifting of power balances in the AFL-CIO -- with, oddly enough, the teamsters becoming the balance. Hoffa definitely will go to prison next spring. As he goes out of the teamsters, they will go back into the AFL-CIO, probably in time for the next national convention in Florida next December.

And they'll bring with them a 1.7 million dues per capita vote. They'll be eminently respectable. And they'll cooperate closely with George Meany. Thus Reuther will lose all power plays inside the AFL-CIO -- but he'll stay inside. No bolt.

There will be strong labor defections to Republicans on the state level -- mostly to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who certainly will make one more bid for the Presidency. . . .Watch for a move by some labor forces to dump Vice President Hubert Humphrey and make Ambassador Arthur Goldberg the nominee as a compromise between Mr. Humphrey and Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Next to George Meany the most influential man inside labor will be the labor leader's labor leader, Paul Hall, Seafarers' International President. If Meany resigns, which he won't, Hall will succeed him -- with the Steelworkers I.W. "Abe" Abel being the runner-up.

You can expect a big steel union drive for some 125,000 white collar workers to be launched next April. . .Pro-Communist unions will all but disappear as they merge with their more conservative brethren. . .

Three young men will be talked of as the leaders of the 1970's -- the state, county and municipal employe's chief Jerry Wurf; the longshoremen's Tony Scotto, who will probably oust ILA president Ted Gleason next year, and Howard Coughlin, quiet but ceaseless organizer of white collar and professional workers.

Most definitely there will be a dramatic drive for farm hand and fruit pickers in the East. Successful too, and on a far broader scale and ambition than in California. . .

Look for a new Congressional probe of pension funds, now hitting one hundred billion dollars. . .You can expect more of Hoffa's coterie to stand in the docket. . .Scandals, indictments and public trials will rock and roll at least three construction unions by midyear. . .The Justice Dept's new labor unit will go for the jugular by attempting to dig the Mafia out of a string of construction locals. . .

On the legislative front, labor will push for a truth-in-lending bill, just as it did in the truth-in-packaging fight. It wants a probe of money-lending and phony installment selling. And it will get it. . .

There will be riots in Santo Domingo. I learned when in Prague last Sept. that the global Communist labor outfit, World Federation of Trade Unions, headquartered there, is pouring money into the Dominican Republic.

Amidst the flurry of rubber, rail, trucking, auto and other strikes, labor will push its "coalition bargaining" campaign on at least 20 fronts before the year's end. The technique of coordinated bargaining was first reported by this columnist.

Prediction: In 1967, it will develop into a new type of unionism.

Furthermore, 1967 will be the year of the professionals, the technicians, the teachers, the nurses, the doctors. And the year of organization of police unions -- and more firemen strikes.

It will be an angry year filled with angry words and angry men and cliff hangers. These are the perils of prosperity -- and war.

Look who's talking!

After the Atomic Energy Commission awarded its atom smasher site to Weston, Ill., near Chicago, U.S. Sen. Edward V. Long of Missouri protested that the agency "violated the trust of the American taxpayer by ignoring vital cost factors."

This utterance is typical of the dedicated lip service that Long has given Missouri citizens through his term in office. He protests after the barn door has been opened and the horse has disappeared over the horizon. This is as far as his devotion to either the nation's economy or the welfare of the taxpayers goes. He certainly hasn't done anything to save any money.

Senator Long has been a rubber stamp for the free wheeling, reckless and irresponsible spending programs of President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society. He has pulled the "yes" voting levers with the careless abandon of a child standing in front of a slot machine with $100 worth of quarters.

Since when has the federal government paid any attention to either cost factors or waste of the taxpayers money? Since when has this been news?

It hasn't been recently.

The Long exercise in futility in belated protest about the atom smasher tastes of sour grapes. The fact that he issued it and expects his constituents to be impressed by it shows that he regards them as nitwits.

Here is a fine example of the kettle calling the pot black.

POST YULE NOTE TO SANTA

Dear Mr. Santa Claus, Sir:

Here's a switch - a letter to you AFTER Christmas!

But it seems only fair that when so many write to ask, some should write to thank you.

You did a great job again, Santa. The papers say you put out more than ever before - billions and billions of dollars worth.

You'd think you'd be getting nothing but rave reviews. But now that the Christmas spirit has worn off a bit, you may be hearing some Monday morning quarterbacking on your performance.

Some say you're just a big, fat front for crass commercialism - that Christmas is nothing but a souped-up sales campaign.

Others are complaining that to commemorate the birth of the Prince of Peace you bring toys of war - guns, bombs, bullets and bazookas. And, in truth, it does seem weird.

Still others are interested in the circumstance that in "The Night Before Christmas" you are credited with an 8-deerpower sleigh, whereas only two years earlier an artist had depicted you as driving only one dinky little deer.

The inference seems to be that you either had an overenthusiastic press agent in "The Night Before Christmas" or you latched on to an awful lot of deer fast.

So there!

So what?

Suppose Christmas does help business. Suppose some of the toys are, unfortunately, a little on the sick side. Suppose, Santa, you are now living it up with 16 reindeer, or that you are down to your last one. Or that you travel dog-sled.

The big thing, Santa, is that the Christmas season you symbolize enriches the lives of millions of people by causing them to forget themselves in thinking of others - that you help bring to a troubled world the therapy of good cheer and good will...that you soften hostility with kindness - and that you put hope in the hearts and a light in the eyes of young and old, if only for a little while.

For all this, Santa, we are grateful to you, and we want you to know it.

Don't let the static you may be hearing bother you too much. The reaction of your fans, of all ages, is ho, ho, ho and hum, hum, hum - a big ho-hum yawn.

Be seeing you next Christmas, Santa, old boy. Meanwhile, take care of yourself, do y'hear? We never needed you more.

Just a kid at heart,
C. L. Blanton, Jr.

NEW APPROACH TO FOOD AID

The Food for Peach program, designed originally to dispose of the country's surplus agricultural products, will enter a new phase on Sunday, Jan. 1. In extending the program for two more years, Congress last October provided $7.4 billion to finance expansion of American food production. More food must be grown if the United States is to have enough for domestic and foreign commercial sales as well as for shipment to hungry nations.

Food for Peace has been the subject of a behind-the-scene power struggle invclving the State Department and Agruculture Department. Each wants a commanding voice in determining how the program should be run. Actually, the new Food for Peace legislation gives the President power to decide how much good should go to which countries, whether it should be sold for cash or on credit, and whether recipient countries are meeting the self-help requirements of the program.

The trouble is that President Johnson has not yet handed down an executive order clearly defining the lines of authority under the new Food for Peace provisions. His failure to do so may have prompted Richard W. Reuter to assert on Dec. 2 that "You need a general for the world-wide war on hunger." Reuter resigned, effective Jan. 1, as special assistant to the Secretary of State in the Food for Peace program.

American food assistance may eventually be merged with that of other developed countries in a vast international program similar to the one operated since 1962 by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has indicated that the administration favors such an approach in dealing with India's food needs. At a news conference in Austin, Texas, Dec. 19, Freeman urged the rest of the world to match American wheat shipments to India with either grain or money. India's requirements are urgent, the Secretary added, but "the United States can't do this all alone."

Inside Labor

Addiction to Prediction Lures Columnist Into Forecast of 1967's Big Labor Stories

Washington, D.C.: --A columnist should have the strength of his predictions as well as his convictions.

But as a charter member of the International Crystal Ball Union, I must warn that our constiution states quite plainly that we are not responsible for fulfillment of any forecast, protected by this inalienable right and encouraged by confirmation of 98 per cent of last year's predictions -- including the Supreme Court's rejection of Jim Hoffa's plea and Congress' rejection of the 14-B repealer -- this columnist sees the following in 1967:

Labor's big drive will be for the wiping out of payment by the hour or the piece. It will push -- and strike, especially in the automobile industry -- for payment by the week, payment by the year and payment for life regardless of the work available. Labor will demand a guaranteed minimum income whether or not the production lines are moving.

There will be strange new demands -- "judicare," for example, which will operate in the courts like medicare does in the hospitals. . .Unions will seek new contract clauses banning "electronic eavesdropping" or closed - circuit television observing in the plants.

Labor will become the second biggest story on the home front, running only slightly behind war and peace. 1967 will be the toughest year on the strike and union fronts -- with some 2,000,000 unionists chanting for more cash. They've had the fringes -- free medicine, pensions, psychiatry, podiatry, ophthomology. They want cash -- big chunks of it.

There will be turbulence in the air when the teamsters and railroad people and communications workers, textile hands, rubber workers, newspaper employes, and at year's end -- the New York City transit workers again -- open their contract offensives.

But the toughest month of the year will be September. That's when Walter Reuther will begin real hardnose bargaining for some 650,000 auto workers in an industry where the profit gap is narrowing.

It will be the loneliest month of the year for Lyndon Johnson. For then there will be auto strikes -- lots of them -- affecting the nation, the military, prosperity and posterity. That month could be the making or unmaking of a President.

Will he clobber? If he does, will it help or hurt him? Will he aid Reuther or will he call him in for a showdown? Or will he demand new emergency strike laws?

If the war goes well, President Johnson will argue. If the war is hell, he'll clobber -- even his old friend Walter Reuther. He'll use proposals brought in by the "task force" -- the full team is named here for the first time: Under Secretary of State Nick Katzenbach, former office of Price Administration counsel David Ginsburg, Harvard's Prof. John Dunlop, Stanford professor J. Keith Mann and UCLA Labor-Management Institute director Ben Aaron, acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark (who will become A.G.) and "caretaker" Jim Reynolds.

But Congress will not pass a tough anti-strike statue. The President does not need any. He has all the power necessary.

Mr. Johnson will depend on what happens next Sept., Oct. and Nov. for new imagery and popularity. Prediction: He will be tough and handle labor more conservatively.

There will be a reshifting of power balances in the AFL-CIO -- with, oddly enough, the teamsters becoming the balance. Hoffa definitely will go to prison next spring. As he goes out of the teamsters, they will go back into the AFL-CIO, probably in time for the next national convention in Florida next December.

And they'll bring with them a 1.7 million dues per capita vote. They'll be eminently respectable. And they'll cooperate closely with George Meany. Thus Reuther will lose all power plays inside the AFL-CIO -- but he'll stay inside. No bolt.

There will be strong labor defections to Republicans on the state level -- mostly to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who certainly will make one more bid for the Presidency. . . .Watch for a move by some labor forces to dump Vice President Hubert Humphrey and make Ambassador Arthur Goldberg the nominee as a compromise between Mr. Humphrey and Sen. Robert Kennedy.

Next to George Meany the most influential man inside labor will be the labor leader's labor leader, Paul Hall, Seafarers' International President. If Meany resigns, which he won't, Hall will succeed him -- with the Steelworkers I.W. "Abe" Abel being the runner-up.

You can expect a big steel union drive for some 125,000 white collar workers to be launched next April. . .Pro-Communist unions will all but disappear as they merge with their more conservative brethren. . .

Three young men will be talked of as the leaders of the 1970's -- the state, county and municipal employe's chief Jerry Wurf; the longshoremen's Tony Scotto, who will probably oust ILA president Ted Gleason next year, and Howard Coughlin, quiet but ceaseless organizer of white collar and professional workers.

Most definitely there will be a dramatic drive for farm hand and fruit pickers in the East. Successful too, and on a far broader scale and ambition than in California. . .

Look for a new Congressional probe of pension funds, now hitting one hundred billion dollars. . .You can expect more of Hoffa's coterie to stand in the docket. . .Scandals, indictments and public trials will rock and roll at least three construction unions by midyear. . .The Justice Dept's new labor unit will go for the jugular by attempting to dig the Mafia out of a string of construction locals. . .

On the legislative front, labor will push for a truth-in-lending bill, just as it did in the truth-in-packaging fight. It wants a probe of money-lending and phony installment selling. And it will get it. . .

There will be riots in Santo Domingo. I learned when in Prague last Sept. that the global Communist labor outfit, World Federation of Trade Unions, headquartered there, is pouring money into the Dominican Republic.

Amidst the flurry of rubber, rail, trucking, auto and other strikes, labor will push its "coalition bargaining" campaign on at least 20 fronts before the year's end. The technique of coordinated bargaining was first reported by this columnist.

Prediction: In 1967, it will develop into a new type of unionism.

Furthermore, 1967 will be the year of the professionals, the technicians, the teachers, the nurses, the doctors. And the year of organization of police unions -- and more firemen strikes.

It will be an angry year filled with angry words and angry men and cliff hangers. These are the perils of prosperity -- and war.

NEW YORK (AP) —New Year's Eve is the best time of year for brooding and self-pity, says one of the world's foremost masochists.

"An annual orgy of self-flagellation," Dan Greenburg calls the holiday in somber appreciation.

Greenburg, a lantern-jawed young man of 30 with the most mournful face this side of a dyspeptic bloodhound, is the author —with Marcia Jacobs—of the training manual "How To Make Yourself Miserable."

One of the good things about New Year's Eve, Greenburg points out, is that you can start dreading it just as soon as Thanksgiving is over, giving you more than a month of unalloyed misery.

He ticks off what you can look forward to:

"1. The inevitable impossibility of obtaining reservations at any good restaurant or show:

"2. The prospect of being repeatedly jostled by drunken revelers or maimed by drunken drivers;

"3. The humiliation of paying $15 to $30 per person for a glass of cheap champagne, an imitation TV dinner and two dime-store party favors."

If you're single, as Greenburg is, you are permitted the additional anxiety that you'll end up with a date you'll be embarrassed to be seen with. Or maybe you won't be able to get one at all.

Last New Year's Eve, Marcia fixed Dan up with a blind date who spent the evening saying how accident - prone she was.

"I was afraid to get close to her," he recalls. "Then we went to a party with wall - to-wall people, who kept telling each other what a great time they were having. It was awful."

Naturally he is suffering immeasurably as this year's great night draws near.

But he has the same alternatives as everyone else:

"1. Deliberately ostracize yourself from your friends and be miserable alone, or

"2. Put on a funny hat and drink too much with the rest of the crowd before a day when you will have ample opportunity to regret your behavior and be sick."

Greenburg finds New Year's Day an especially rewarding time for brooding if unrealistic goals are incorporated in New Year's resolutions, such as finding the perfect mate, the perfect job; writing the great American novel, and getting even with the telephone company.

Miss Jacobs, Greenburg's partner in literary wretchedness, is a sleek, 29-year-old brunette with bangs in her eyes. She says she learned about being miserable from the movie stars she got to know during her recent stint as a theatrical press agent. She married an advertising man last July and really isn't all that miserable.

"You can say I am now working on a brilliant and sensitive first novel and a wildly funny play," she suggests.

Dan Greenburg: "And I am writing a brilliant and sensitive second novel and two wildly funny plays."

His first novel was "Kiss My Firm But Pliant Lips" and his first training manual, "How To Be a Jewish Mother," was the best-selling hard-cover book of 1965.

For "Miserable," Dan and Marcia collaborated entirely in restaurants, meeting two or three times a week to discuss it. Then Dan would go home and write it.

After it was published, people started seeking them out to confide their secret fears.

One woman hides knives under cushions all over her apartment so she'll have ready defense against intruders. Another strews crackly paper at night to give warning. Still another, despite Marcia's reasoned arguments, is going ahead with the manufacture of an electrified chair to set right inside her door. Anyone breaking in will have to take hold of it, and it won't let go.

But Dan understands these things. For a year after seeing the movie "Psycho," in which someone gets murdered in the shower, he never took a bath without singing loudly for awhile, then stopping and yelling: "Okay, I know you're out there."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - A House watchdog subcommittee, charged with safeguarding the taxpayers' money, has just returned from checking on the misuse of counterpart funds in Europe and the middle east. It was not very careful about the taxpayers' money which it spent.

To help watch the outflow of money, the watchdog lawmakers brought along their wives, visited the scenic high spots and didn't spare the counterpart funds. They even arranged to be entertained by the trade associations which they had come to criticize, until Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., the subcommittee chairman, put his foot down.

In fairness, it should be mentioned that the subcommittee actually held a few hearings while the wives were out shopping. Indeed, the spectacle of congressional junketeers pausing from their pleasure to conduct some business was so extraordinary that Time Magazine, almost in disbelief, sent a photographer to take pictures of a hearing in Rome.

The subcommittee's inspection of overseas waste started out like most other congressional junkets with cables to our embassies ranging from London to TEL AVIV, directing them to roll out the red carpet.

"Hotel reservations should be made for six twin-bed doubles," the cable instructed, "for congressmen Rosenthal, D-N.Y., Randall, D-Mo., St. Germain, D-R.I., Dole, R-Kan., Dickinson, R-Ala., and Mr. Freed (staff director), all of whom will bring their wives...."

"Subcommittee chairman has requested that reservations be made at best hotels, with Excelsior specified for Rome."

PRIVATE AIR FORCE PLANE

At the last minute, Randall and St. Germain backed out. Dole and Dickinson also left their wives home. Instead, Rep. Edwards, R-Ala., and his wife were recruited for the tour.

It turned out that the committee wasn't able to get into the Excelsior and were obliged to settel for Rome's slightly less elegant Victoria Hotel. Elsewhere, they stayed only at the best places.

They took a commercial flight across the Atlantic, the taxpayers picking up the congressmen's tickets but the congressmen paying their wive's way. Once overseas, however, the Air Force was ordered to provide them with a private plane, complete with two military escort officers. The Agriculture Department also provided an escort.

The schedule called for some briefings and hearings, but more sightseeing and partying. Here was the schedule for a typical day in London:

"9:30 A.M. - Cars will pick up group (including wives) at hotel for drive to Windsor castle.

"12:30 P.M. - Lunch in Windsor or at a pub in country, and return to London.

"3 P.M. - Tour of London, including views of Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey, Parliament and Big Ben, Covent Garden, St. Paul's Cathedral, Guild Hall, Mansion House, Bank of England, Tower of London, and Tower Bridge. Without stopping, except briefly to take pictures, this tour would require about two hours, depending upon traffic.

"5 P.M. - Return to hotel. "Evening free, or unhosted dinner at typical English restaurant."

In the past two years, the subcommittee has issued two reports blasting such trade associations as the Cotton Council, Great Plains Wheat Association, Rice Council, U.S. Feed Grains Council, National Renderers Association and Soybean Council, for squandering counterpart funds.

ONE MAN PROTESTS

These private trade groups have been authorized to spend foreign currencies, owned by the American taxpayers, to promote U.S. farm products overseas. On the whole, the program has succeeded in increasing farm exports and reducing the gold drain. But the congressmen have claimed that the trade groups have also misspent thousands of dollars for vacations and parties at the taxpayers' expense.

Nevertheless, the subcommittee staff, working with the Agriculture Department, lined up for the junketing congressmen the very sort of entertainment they had previously criticized.

The congressmen and their wives were scheduled to be entertained at lunch in London by the Cotton Council, dinner in Copenhagen by Great Plains Wheat, lunch at a Swiss historical site by the Rice Council, dinner in Rome by the Feed Grains Council and National Renderers Association, and dinner in Madrid by the Soybean Council.

When Chairman Rosenthal saw the cable scheduling these free meals, he angrily ordered a clarifying cable sent off to make it clear that the subcommittee would accept no hand-outs from the trade groups it had criticized.

Most of the luncheons and dinners were held on schedule, but after each meal an aide went through the ritual of collecting from each congressman to pay the tab.

This made little difference to the taxpayers. Instead of the trade groups using counterpart funds to pay for the dinners, the congressmen either directly or indirectly used the same counterpart funds. For in each city they loaded up on U.S. owned local currencies which are set aside for junketing congressmen.

It will be interesting to see whether the subcommittee, in its next report on the misuse of counterpart funds, will mention its own abuses.

NEW YEAR NECESSITIES

Oh, doubtless I shall need a new
Supply of patience every day
For novel mischief youngsters do
And quite unheard-of pranks they play.
I'll need a calm I've never had--
Would I could buy some at a bargain!--
To cope with each new teenage fad
In heroes, music, clothes, and jargon.
For every unexpected act
As talents, interests, needs appear
I'll need fresh wisdom, humor, tact--
And love that lasts from year to year.

--Jane Merchant.

Mary Faith Pruitt Pledges Vows With William Gifford

CHARLESTON -- Miss Mary Faith Pruitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Pruitt, route one, and William Allen Gifford of Gideon, were married last Friday at 7 p.m. in a double ring ceremony at Gravel Ridge Baptist church. Rev. Thrope, pastor of Red Star Baptist church in Cape Girardeau conducted the ceremony.

Two nine branch candelabra and one large arched candelabra holding 19 white candles, arrangements of white mums, white pom-pons with leather leaf greenery, formed the decoration for the sanctuary. Each window of the auditorium held a candle and an arrangement of white mums. The pews of the bridal aisle were marked with white bows. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Fred Bridges of Texas, sister of the bridegroom, served as organist and accompanied John Gifford of Macon, brother of the bridegroom, who sang "I Love Thee" before the ceremony and for the benediction, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned with a square neckline and long sleeves. The floor-length skirt ended in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearls and rhinestones and she wore pearl jewelry. She carried white roses.

Miss Linda Thompson, maid of honor, wore pink velvet and Miss Joanie Simmons and Miss Maxine McCann, as bridesmaids, wore red velvet. Their dresses were fashioned like that of the maid of honor and their headdresses matched their gowns. Each carried a white Bible, a gift from the bride. On top of each Bible was an arrangement of white camellias.

Bill Lowery of Cape Girardeau served as best man and Rodney Trese of Texas and Darryl Gifford of Columbia, as groomsmen. The candlelighters, Misses Sue and Joyce Ervin of Cape Girardeau, wore red velvet dresses and wristlets of white camellias.

Mrs. Pruitt, mother of the bride, wore green crepe and black accessories. Mrs. Gifford, mother of the bridegroom, wore a two-piece blue suit with matching accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of white roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Here the bride's chosen colors of red and pink were used. The bride's table, covered with white linen, was draped with red net, caught at each corner with a spray of holly, a red ribbon bow and white wedding bells.

The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on each side with silver candelabra, holding white candles. Cranberry punch was served with cake, mints and nuts.

Gifford and his bride left for a wedding trip to St. Louis. She wore a two-piece suit of blue crepe with matching accessories and a white rose corsage. They will live in Memphis, where he is a medical student at the University of Tennessee and she is a student at Memphis State University.

Demetra Ann Smith Weds Claude H. Abernathy Jr.

MALDEN - Miss Demetra Ann Smith became the bride of Claude Harris Abernathy, Jr., Dec. 10, in a candlelight ceremony at the First Southern Baptist church. The Rev. Harry Tope officiated for the 6:30 p.m. ceremony, during which double ring vows were exchanged.

Mrs. Hutson Green played the program of organ music, and Mrs. Harold Towery, soloist, sang "O, Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The background was formed with floor baskets of white carnations and smap dragons flanking the sides of an arched brass candelabra holding lighted white tapers. Potted ferns illuminated by spiral candle trees completed the setting, and the couple knelt on a satin covered bench for the benediction.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Smith, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de sole fashioned with a rounding neckline and box pleats. A fitted jacket of white Chantilly lace, featuring long sleeves ending in points over the hands, accented the gown, and back interest was formed with a chapel train. A lace covered white satin headpiece held secure her finger-tip veil of misty illusion, and she carried an arrangement of white gardenias tied with pearl and satin ropes. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, and white satin shoes completed the bridal attire.

Mrs. Lee Carter of Del City, Okla., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Patty Smith. They wore identical attires of blue brocade fashioned in street-length sheaths and accented with blue chiffon sleeves. Their headpieces were formed with bows of shaded blues and nosetip veils, and each carried a nosegay of white Fuji mums.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Abernathy, chose his brother-in-law, Lee Carter, as best man, and Kevin Bradley Smith, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Sandra Carter, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Barbara Fullerton and Karon Loafman lighted the candles. They wore frocks of blue taffeta fashioned with chiffon sleeves and a tiered bow headpiece completed with nosetip veils.

For the wedding of her daughter, Mrs. Smith chose a three-piece ensemble of gray and white accented with royal plum accessories and a plum colored corsage. Mrs. Abernathy, mother of the bridegroom, selected a two-piece blue knit suit with which she wore black and white accessories and a white corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the educational building of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth overskirted with blue net. An arrangement of white wedding bells and blue satin steamers formed the table background enhanced with a candelabra adorned with blue Fuji mums and white snapdragons.

Their wedding trip included a tour of the Ozarks and northern regions of Missouri. For traveling the bride changed to a two-piece suit of navy blue accented with white trim. She wore navy accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. The couple are now at home at 105-1/2 South Madison Street.

The bride graduated from Malden high school and attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau. She is employed as bookkeeper for Preyer and Greene Equipment Co. The bridegroom attended Malden high school and is employed by the City of Malden.

Julie Nixon Attends Ball

NEW YORK (AP) - A tall, rosy-cheeked brunette whose father was once vice president of the United States clung to the arm of a curly-haired lad whose grandfather was president at the time. She made her way down the center of a ballroom to bow to international society Thursday night.

The girl, Julie Nixon, representing the United States, was the first of 57 daughters of rich and important parents presented at the 12th annual International Debutante Ball held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Julie, 17, a freshman at Smith College, is the younger daughter of former Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. Her escort was David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

More than 1,000 guests sat around candlelit tables or leaned over balconies glittering with gold and twinkling with lights to watch the parade of beauties and their military escorts.

Presiding over the event from the royal box - one that bulged out a little farther than the rest - were Julie's proud parents.

Randy Paar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Paar, was too shy to join the receiving line of white-gowned girls who smiled and shook hands for several hours.

The International Debutante Ball was founded by Beatrice Joyce, an ample woman dubbed as "Dutchess of Debs."

The yearly charity affair is a benefit for the Kidney Foundation of New York.

Miss Lovelace To Be Bride of Michael Fridley

ST. CHARLES -- Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lovelace, 17 Orchard Lane, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beatrice Diane Lovelace and Michael C. Fridley, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaVon Fridley, 2203 St. Richard Court.

Miss Lovelace, a 1963 graduate of St. Charles high school, is a senior at Lindenwood College, where she is majoring in elementary education and English. She is a member of Linden Scroll, a senior honorary society, in which she serves as president and The Linden Leaves, the college yearbook, in which she is serving as business editor. Miss Lovelace is also a member of the Student National Education Association, Interclub Council, and the Day Students Organization.

Miss Lovelace is the granddaughter of Mrs. H. R. Lovelace, 404 East Cypress, Charleston.

Fridley, also a 1963 graduate of St. Charles high school, is a student at the University of Missouri at Rolla, where he is majoring in civil engineering. His social fraternity is Kappa Sigma and he holds membership in Theta Tau, a professional engineering fraternity. He is a member of the St. Pat's Board, M-Club, and the varsity football team.

Wedding plans are being made for Aug. 5.

Miss Evans Plans June Wedding

BLOOMFIELD -- Mr. and Mrs. James D. Evans announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Aletha Evans, to Dennis Hugh Gillispie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hugh Gillispie.

Miss Evans, a 1965 graduate of the Bloomfield high school, is employed at Murdock Loan in Poplar Bluff.

Gillispie, also a 1965 graduate of the Bloomfield schools, is a sophomore at Jefferson College, Hillsboro.

The couple is planning a June wedding.

Charleston Guard To Sponsor Dance

CHARLESTON -- The Army National Guard unit will sponsor a New Years Eve dance Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the armory.

New York City's first elevator-equipped office buildings were opened in 1868; they were the first in the world.

Mrs. LBJ Is 5th On List

Marvin R. Wallace

NEW YORK (AP) — Being on the international best-dressed list this year seems to be a relative matter. The top 12 for 1966 are, for the most part, the daughters, or sisters, or in-laws of other best-dressed people.

A new member is Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, voted into fifth place by members of the fashion industry. Her daughter, Lynda Bird, also figured prominently in the voting, although she didn't make the top 12.

It was the first time any member of the Texas family in the White House had been even a contender for international fashion honors.

Heading the 1966 list this year is Princess Stanislas Radziwill, who didn't make it at all last year. But she had nevertheless been on it in previous years.

The best-dressed committee, composed of fashion editors, had elevated her sister-in-law, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, and Mrs. Kennedy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph F. Kennedy, to the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Princess Radziwill, who will make her stage debut in Chicago next June, once worked briefly for McCall's magazine, the same publication that now employs Lynda Bird Johnson.

Another mother - daughter combination is Mrs. Carter Burden and Mrs. William Paley, wife of the Columbia Broadcasting System chairman. Mrs. Paley is in the Fashion Hall of Fame after five years on the big lit. Her 23-year-old daughter headed the international best-dressed list last year and placed second this year.

Mrs. Loel Guinness, who has topped past lists, also has moved into the hall of permanent fashion glory to make room for other elegants. Taking a vacant place, 7th, is a pretty daughter-in-law Mrs. Patrick Guinness.

Henry Ford II's first wife, Anne McDonnell Ford, is in the Hall of Fame, and his second wife, the former Cristina Austin of Rome, is 11th this year.

Last year, Henry's daughters, Anne and Charlotte shared a berth, making the best 12 list a baker's dozen. This year Charlotte Ford Niarchos has 8th place, but sister Anne didn't repeat.

There are two Vanderbilts. Gloria Vanderbilt, now wed to writer Wyatt Cooper, is 4th; Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is 6th.

Unrelated except professionally are actresses Lauren Bacall — Mrs. Jason Robards Jr. — in 3rd place; and Sophia Loren — Mrs. Carl Ponti — in 9th place.

Church Begins Sunday School Emphasis Drive

Sunday, New Years Day, will begin a Sunday School emphasis program at the First Church of the Nazarene. The program will be spread over 12 Sundays and will end Palm Sunday, March 19.

Each Sunday will represent a month of the year. All members having birthdays in a particular month will make a committee to increase the attendance on a designated Sunday.

All who have birthdays in January are on a committee to boost the attendance Sunday. Marvin R. "Buddy" Wallace is chairman.

The public is invited. The Rev. John D. Rhame is pastor.

NEW YEAR NECESSITIES

Oh, doubtless I shall need a new
Supply of patience every day
For novel mischief youngsters do
And quite unheard-of pranks they play.
I'll need a calm I've never had--
Would I could buy some at a bargain!--
To cope with each new teenage fad
In heroes, music, clothes, and jargon.
For every unexpected act
As talents, interests, needs appear
I'll need fresh wisdom, humor, tact--
And love that lasts from year to year.

--Jane Merchant.

Mary Faith Pruitt Pledges Vows With William Gifford

CHARLESTON -- Miss Mary Faith Pruitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Pruitt, route one, and William Allen Gifford of Gideon, were married last Friday at 7 p.m. in a double ring ceremony at Gravel Ridge Baptist church, Rev. Thrope, pastor of Red Star Baptist church in Cape Girardeau conducted the ceremony.

Two nine branch candelabra and one large arched candelabra holding 19 white candles, arrangements of white mums, white pom-pons with leather leaf greenery, formed the decoration for the sanctuary. Each window of the auditorium held a candle and an arrangement of white mums. The pews of the bridal aisle were marked with white bows. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Fred Bridges of Texas, sister of the bridegroom, served as organist and accompanied John Gifford of Macon, brother of the bridegroom, who sang "I Love Thee" before the ceremony and for the benediction, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin, fashioned with a square neckline and long sleeves. The floor-length skirt ended in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearls and rhinestones and she wore pearl jewelry. She carried white roses.

Miss Linda Thompson, maid of honor, wore pink velvet and Miss Joanie Simmons and Miss Maxine McCann, as bridesmaids, wore red velvet. Their dresses were fashioned like that of the maid of honor and their headdresses matched their gowns. Each carried a white Bible, a gift from the bride. On top of each Bible was an arrangement of white camellias.

Bill Lowery of Cape Girardeau served as best man and Rodney Trese of Texas and Darryl Gifford of Columbia, as groomsmen. The candlelighters, Misses Sue and Joyce Ervin of Cape Girardeau, wore red velvet dresses and wristlets of white camellias.

Mrs. Pruitt, mother of the bride, wore green crepe and black accessories. Mrs. Gifford, mother of the bridegroom, wore a two-piece blue suit with matching accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of white roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Here the bride's chosen colors of red and pink were used. The bride's table, covered with white linen, was draped with red net, caught at each corner with a spray of holly, a red ribbon bow and white wedding bells.

The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on each side with silver candelabra, holding white candles. Cranberry punch was served with cake, mints and nuts.

Gifford and his bride left for a wedding trip to St. Louis. She wore a two-piece suit of blue crepe with matching accessories and a white rose corsage. They will live in Memphis, where he is a medical student at the University of Tennessee and she is a student at Memphis State University.

Demetra Ann Smith Weds Claude H. Abernathy Jr.

MALDEN - Miss Demetra Ann Smith became the bride of Claude Harris Abernathy, Jr., Dec. 10, in a candlelight ceremony at the First Southern Baptist church. The Rev. Harry Tope officiated for the 6:30 p.m. ceremony, during which double ring vows were exchanged.

Mrs. Hutson Green played the program of organ music, and Mrs. Harold Towery, soloist, sang "O, Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The background was formed with floor baskets of white carnations and smap dragons flanking the sides of an arched brass candelabra holding lighted white tapers. Potted ferns illuminated by spiral candle trees completed the setting, and the couple knelt on a satin covered bench for the benediction.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Smith, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de sole fashioned with a rounding neckline and box pleats. A fitted jacket of white Chantilly lace, featuring long sleeves ending in points over the hands, accented the gown, and back interest was formed with a chapel train. A lace covered white satin headpiece held secure her finger-tip veil of misty illusion, and she carried an arrangement of white gardenias tied with pearl and satin ropes. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, and white satin shoes completed the bridal attire.

Mrs. Lee Carter of Del City, Okla., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Patty Smith. They wore identical attires of blue brocade fashioned in street-length sheaths and accented with blue chiffon sleeves. Their headpieces were formed with bows of shaded blues and nosetip veils, and each carried a nosegay of white Fuji mums.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Abernathy, chose his brother-in-law, Lee Carter, as best man, and Kevin Bradley Smith, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

Sandra Carter, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Barbara Fullerton and Karon Loafman lighted the candles. They wore frocks of blue taffeta fashioned with chiffon sleeves and a tiered bow headpiece completed with nosetip veils.

For the wedding of her daughter, Mrs. Smith chose a three-piece ensemble of gray and white accented with royal plum accessories and a plum colored corsage. Mrs. Abernathy, mother of the bridegroom, selected a two-piece blue knit suit with which she wore black and white accessories and a white corsage.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the educational building of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth overskirted with blue net. An arrangement of white wedding bells and blue satin steamers formed the table background enhanced with a candelabra adorned with blue Fuji mums and white snapdragons.

Their wedding trip included a tour of the Ozarks and northern regions of Missouri. For traveling the bride changed to a two-piece suit of navy blue accented with white trim. She wore navy accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. The couple are now at home at 105-1/2 South Madison Street.

The bride graduated from Malden high school and attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau. She is employed as bookkeeper for Preyer and Greene Equipment Co. The bridegroom attended Malden high school and is employed by the City of Malden.

Julie Nixon Attends Ball

NEW YORK (AP) - A tall, rosy-cheeked brunette whose father was once vice president of the United States clung to the arm of a curly-haired lad whose grandfather was president at the time. She made her way down the center of a ballroom to bow to international society Thursday night.

The girl, Julie Nixon, representing the United States, was the first of 57 daughters of rich and important parents presented at the 12th annual International Debutante Ball held at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Julie, 17, a freshman at Smith College, is the younger daughter of former Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. Her escort was David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

More than 1,000 guests sat around candlelit tables or leaned over balconies glittering with gold and twinkling with lights to watch the parade of beauties and their military escorts.

Presiding over the event from the royal box - one that bulged out a little farther than the rest - were Julie's proud parents.

Randy Paar, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Paar, was too shy to join the receiving line of white-gowned girls who smiled and shook hands for several hours.

The International Debutante Ball was founded by Beatrice Joyce, an ample woman dubbed as "Dutchess of Debs."

The yearly charity affair is a benefit for the Kidney Foundation of New York.

Miss Lovelace To Be Bride of Michael Fridley

ST. CHARLES -- Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lovelace, 17 Orchard Lane, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beatrice Diane Lovelace and Michael C. Fridley, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaVon Fridley, 2203 St. Richard Court.

Miss Lovelace, a 1963 graduate of St. Charles high school, is a senior at Lindenwood College, where she is majoring in elementary education and English. She is a member of Linden Scroll, a senior honorary society, in which she serves as president and The Linden Leaves, the college yearbook, in which she is serving as business editor. Miss Lovelace is also a member of the Student National Education Association, Interclub Council, and the Day Students Organization.

Miss Lovelace is the granddaughter of Mrs. H. R. Lovelace, 404 East Cypress, Charleston.

Fridley, also a 1963 graduate of St. Charles high school, is a student at the University of Missouri at Rolla, where he is majoring in civil engineering. His social fraternity is Kappa Sigma and he holds membership in Theta Tau, a professional engineering fraternity. He is a member of the St. Pat's Board, M-Club, and the varsity football team.

Wedding plans are being made for Aug. 5.

Miss Evans Plans June Wedding

BLOOMFIELD -- Mr. and Mrs. James D. Evans announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Aletha Evans, to Dennis Hugh Gillispie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hugh Gillispie.

Miss Evans, a 1965 graduate of the Bloomfield high school, is employed at Murdock Loan in Poplar Bluff.

Gillispie, also a 1965 graduate of the Bloomfield schools, is a sophomore at Jefferson College, Hillsboro.

The couple is planning a June wedding.

Charleston Guard To Sponsor Dance

Mrs. LBJ Is 5th On List

NEW YORK (AP) — Being on the international best-dressed list this year seems to be a relative matter. The top 12 for 1966 are, for the most part, the daughters, or sisters, or in-laws of other best-dressed people.

A new member is Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, voted into fifth place by members of the fashion industry. Her daughter, Lynda Bird, also figured prominently in the voting, although she didn't make the top 12.

It was the first time any member of the Texas family in the White House had been even a contender for international fashion honors.

Heading the 1966 list this year is Princess Stanislas Radziwill, who didn't make it at all last year. But she had nevertheless been on it in previous years.

The best-dressed committee, composed of fashion editors, had elevated her sister-in-law, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, and Mrs. Kennedy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Joseph F. Kennedy, to the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Princess Radziwill, who will make her stage debut in Chicago next June, once worked briefly for McCall's magazine, the same publication that now employs Lynda Bird Johnson.

Another mother - daughter combination is Mrs. Carter Burden and Mrs. William Paley, wife of the Columbia Broadcasting System chairman. Mrs. Paley is in the Fashion Hall of Fame after five years on the big lit. Her 23-year-old daughter headed the international best-dressed list last year and placed second this year.

Mrs. Loel Guinness, who has topped past lists, also has moved into the hall of permanent fashion glory to make room for other elegants. Taking a vacant place, 7th, is a pretty daughter-in-law Mrs. Patrick Guinness.

Henry Ford II's first wife, Anne McDonnell Ford, is in the Hall of Fame, and his second wife, the former Cristina Austin of Rome, is 11th this year.

Last year, Henry's daughters, Anne and Charlotte shared a berth, making the best 12 list a baker's dozen. This year Charlotte Ford Niarchos has 8th place, but sister Anne didn't repeat.

There are two Vanderbilts. Gloria Vanderbilt, now wed to writer Wyatt Cooper, is 4th; Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is 6th.

Unrelated except professionally are actresses Lauren Bacall — Mrs. Jason Robards Jr. — in 3rd place; and Sophia Loren — Mrs. Carl Ponti — in 9th place.

Purple Wildcats Hope Third Time Is Charm

BLOOMFIELD -- Matthews-wonderful Pirates (15-0) and the scrappy Bloomfield Wildcats meet tonight at 8:30 p.m. for the championship of the Ninth annual Bloomfield invitational tournament. This will be the third meeting of these two powerhouses. Matthews has won the two previous contests.

The purple Wildcats are defending champions and have taken the title two years. In 1964 they trounced Gideon, 96-45, and in 1965 edged Dexter, 45-34.

The title game will be preceded by the consolation contest between Kennett's team coached by Terry Turlington, and the surprising Bell City Cubs, coached by Edwin Street.

In last night's semi-finals viewed by more than 3,000, Matthews buried Kennett 73-54 and Bloomfield pressed their way past Bell City 56-47.

Last night's games, played in Bloomfield's big gymnasium, saw the area's top two teams advance into the finals as expected.

Matthews is rated number one in the tournament and Bloomfield was seeded number two. They both took those same positions in the Daily Standard basketball poll of coaches.

Two teams not expected to make it past the first round games made their way into the consolation bracket. The Kennett Indians upset Dexter in a quarterfinal round and Bell City dumped Richland in quarterfinal play.

Coach Turlington's fighting Kennett Indians started the game with one of their offensive players missing, due to a leg injury, but opened up with a surprising lead of 10-6 with 2:07 remaining in the first period.

Matthews started having troubles early in the first quarter as they were cold from the floor and had trouble making a basket even under the goal.

With a 10-6 lead the Indians started holding the ball and trying to get the Pirates out of a zone defense, which failed but they added a basket with eight seconds remaining on the clock and took a 12-6 first quarter lead.

Coach Jim Hart's unbelieveable Pirates came out of their zone and started the second period with a man-to-man defense. It was just what they needed as they began to run and shoot and closed to within one point of the leading Indians with 2:05 left in the first half, 22-21.

Having trouble rebounding on defense the first half, the Pirates' out-court shooting sent them ahead for the first time in the game, 23-21, with 1:35 left in the first half.

Brooks led the Pirates in their second quarter surge and ended the period with seven points and sent his team ahead at half, 27-24.

The Pirates wheeled to a 46-40 lead at the end of the third period.

Matthews' Bishop kept his teammates in the game the third period as he pumped in eight needed points but without the rebounding of Hardin in the third period the Pirates would have been lost. He took over the rebounding load. Tom Hicks was forced to leave the game due to fouls.

Kennett was also in foul trouble early in the third period as two of Coach Turlington's Indians were forced to set out a part of the quarter and another collected his fifth in the closing seconds of the period.

Kennett, showing signs of desire in the fourth period, closed the score to 50-44, after the Pirates had shot into a 48-40 lead early in the period.

Due to fouls, the Pirates defense slackened and the Indians started their way back into contention but another Indian player, Napier, fouled out midway in the period. All his fouls came while guarding the fantastic Brooks, who racked up 19 points to lead the Pirates' scoring.

Other scorers in double figures for the Pirates were Leonard Bishop with 18 and Tom Hicks with 17.

Mike Tweedy topped the Indians scoring with 23 points, he was followed by Jim Fingers, who netted 14.

In the most evenly matched game of the tournament, the Bloomfield Wildcats forced the Bell City Cubs into constant floor mistakes and capitalized on them.

Bloomfield led most of the game but Bell City caught fire in the waning moments and managed to close to within three points late in the fourth period.

Coach Tom Hewgley's and Charles Spoonhours' Purple Wildcats jumped into a 2-0 lead but fell back 4-2 as the Cubs scored one quick basket and two free throws.

The Wildcats' well known zone press rattled the Bell City quintet at the start of the game, enabling the Bloomfield squad to capatilize on lay-ups and an 18-3 first quarter lead.

Outcourt shooting of the Cats began to take its toll early in the second period. The host rolled into a 31-23 halftime edge.

Coach Street's Cubs stayed with the Wildcats in the third period and closed to within two points of the leaders with 4:32 remaining in he game, 46-44, but the Wildcats' press continued to give the surprising Cubs trouble and as the closing minute and a half rolled around the Cubs were forced into a fouling situation as Bloomfield put the ball on ice.

Terry Hesselrode took scoring honors for the Cubs. He netted 10 points and was the Bell City player in double figures. The Bloomfield defense held down the Cubs' scoring attack.

Glen Williamson netted 16 points to lead the Wildcats to victory.

ANOTHER-ANOTHER

The end draws near....and is nearer than you may think at Bloomfield....for the Purple Wildcats will be trying to snap the Matthews Pirates winning string at 15 games, while the Pirates will be trying to add the Wildcats to their victory list for the third time this season.

Tonight's meeting between these two top rated teams may shape up to be just a preview of what's to come in the regional tournament at Bloomfield later this season.

At Cape Girardeau tonight playoffs will determine who will meet who in the championship game Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. Oran is up against, perhaps, the best underrated team in the tournament while two Cape teams battle it out for a final berth.

The Senath-Hornersville tournament moves into its semi-finals tonight.

Here are tonight's predictions.

BLOOMFIELD TOURNEY

Kennett vs. Bell City - We'll take the upset minded Cubs in this contest....Bell City 56, Kennett 55.

Matthews vs. Bloomfield -- We took Matthews the first time these two met and then we switched to Bloomfield the last....We'll go along with the Pirates again....They'll take a rather easy victory...IF....the Wildcats don't get too many breaks. Matthews 61, Bloomfield 59.

CAPE TOURNEY

Oran vs. Howardville - This game should shape up to be one like that at Memphis for the Eagles from Oran....They'll have to have good defense and rebound well to down the Hawks from Howardville. We think they will...Oran 74, Howardville 67.

Notre Dame vs. Cape Central - Maybe those Tigers have begun to play ball....MAYBE..... If they have we should take them....but we'll stick with the Bulldogs....Notre Dame 67, Cape Central 56.

SENATH TOURNEY

Campbell vs. North Pemiscot - We see the Camels moving into the finals with a rather hard victory....Campbell 62, North Pemiscot 61 overtime.

South Pemiscot vs. Delta C-7 - Those southerners will clip the Chargers in the first quarter...and will have little trouble the rest of the game... South Pemiscot 69, Delta C-7 46.

That's it from here...Will see you at Bloomfield.....

Senath Tournament Moves Into Semi-Finals Tonight

SENATH - Winning a seat in tonight's semi-final action were Delta C-7 and South Pemiscot. Delta whipped Southland 49-46 and South Pemiscot clipped Senath 64-59.

In semi-final play South Pemiscot will take on Delta C-7 at 8:30 and North Pemiscot will battle Campbell at 7 p.m.

Southland led in last night's game up to the last quarter. It jumped to a quick 9-0 lead before Delta scored. The first period drew to a close showing Southland leading 15-10. Southland put on a full court press. The Delta squad could not get down court and trailed at the intermission 26-20.

Early in the final period, Southland still maintained its lead 36-33. Delta, getting hot, popped 13 straight points before Southland could score and made it 46-36. This was Delta's first lead in the ball game. The turning point for the Chargers was in taking advantage of Smith fouling out for Southland.

Hitting only eight points, Smith was responsible for keeping the Southland quintet fired up and going.

Unable to keep its starting players in the game, the Senath team fell back quickly. Every one of Senath's starters fouled out in the game.

The deciding factor was free throw shooting. South Pemiscot netted 30 free tosses. Senath got 21. At the half South Pemiscot had a 15-point lead.

Freeman had 29 points for South Pemiscot while Green had 14 for Senath-Hornersville.

ONE FAITH FOR ALL!

"One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all." (Eph. 4:5-6)

On the eve of His death, the Savior beseeched his Father "That they may all be one."

What a blessing to mankind if this entreaty of Christ would be fulfilled . . . if Christians would once more find the accord they knew many centuries ago!

Why should this ideal of unity not become reality? There is nothing to impede interfaith understanding. Religious liberty is as much valued by Catholics as by other Christians. No one is asked to dilute the strength of his own convictions in the pursuit of a unified Christendom.

What would this unity mean? How would it benefit mankind? For one thing, man's ageless hunger for peace might at last be satisfied. "War never again" are the words of Pope Paul . . . and with the voices of all Christians sounding this plea in unison, an era of unending peace might well be born.

Truly, all Christians want and work for the same things . . . a merciful society, an end to injustice, disease, poverty, ignorance and all the other ills of humanity. But how much closer to these goals we all would be if harmony among Christians would be renewed!

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH INVITES YOU . . . without cost or obligation of any kind to study the teachings of the Catholic Church . . . Christian truths as they were taught by the Apostles centuries ago. Judge for yourself how much alike are your beliefs and those of Catholics.

The Knights of Columbus, in their desire to foster Christian understanding, offer a complete library of Catholic literature explaining every aspect of Catholicism . . . any of which is available to you.

FREE MAIL COUPON TODAY: Simply mail the coupon below and we will send you a pamphlet explaining the basics of Catholic teaching . . . along with a folder listing all pamphlets available. In this way, you can request literature on subject of greatest interest to you. All literature will be sent in a plain wrapper and no one will call on you.

DANTON, TEX. (AP) - Rod Rust, defensive coach of Stanford for the past two seasons, was named head football coach of North Texas State University Thursday.

BLOOMFIELD -- Matthews-wonderful Pirates (15-0) and the scrappy Bloomfield Wildcats meet tonight at 8:30 p.m. for the championship of the Ninth annual Bloomfield invitational tournament. This will be the third meeting of these two powerhouses. Matthews has won the two previous contests.

The purple Wildcats are defending champions and have taken the title two years. In 1964 they trounced Gideon, 96-45, and in 1965 edged Dexter, 45-34.

The title game will be preceded by the consolation contest between Kennett's team coached by Terry Turlington, and the surprising Bell City Cubs, coached by Edwin Street.

In last night's semi-finals viewed by more than 3,000, Matthews buried Kennett 73-54 and Bloomfield pressed their way past Bell City 56-47.

Last night's games, played in Bloomfield's big gymnasium, saw the area's top two teams advance into the finals as expected.

Matthews is rated number one in the tournament and Bloomfield was seeded number two. They both took those same positions in the Daily Standard basketball poll of coaches.

Two teams not expected to make it past the first round games made their way into the consolation bracket. The Kennett Indians upset Dexter in a quarterfinal round and Bell City dumped Richland in quarterfinal play.

Coach Turlington's fighting Kennett Indians started the game with one of their offensive players missing, due to a leg injury, but opened up with a surprising lead of 10-6 with 2:07 remaining in the first period.

Matthews started having troubles early in the first quarter as they were cold from the floor and had trouble making a basket even under the goal.

With a 10-6 lead the Indians started holding the ball and trying to get the Pirates out of a zone defense, which failed but they added a basket with eight seconds remaining on the clock and took a 12-6 first quarter lead.

Coach Jim Hart's unbelieveable Pirates came out of their zone and started the second period with a man-to-man defense. It was just what they needed as they began to run and shoot and closed to within one point of the leading Indians with 2:05 left in the first half, 22-21.

Having trouble rebounding on defense the first half, the Pirates' out-court shooting sent them ahead for the first time in the game, 23-21, with 1:35 left in the first half.

Brooks led the Pirates in their second quarter surge and ended the period with seven points and sent his team ahead at half, 27-24.

The Pirates wheeled to a 46-40 lead at the end of the third period.

Matthews' Bishop kept his teammates in the game the third period as he pumped in eight needed points but without the rebounding of Hardin in the third period the Pirates would have been lost. He took over the rebounding load. Tom Hicks was forced to leave the game due to fouls.

Kennett was also in foul trouble early in the third period as two of Coach Turlington's Indians were forced to set out a part of the quarter and another collected his fifth in the closing seconds of the period.

Kennett, showing signs of desire in the fourth period, closed the score to 50-44, after the Pirates had shot into a 48-40 lead early in the period.

Due to fouls, the Pirates defense slackened and the Indians started their way back into contention but another Indian player, Napier, fouled out midway in the period. All his fouls came while guarding the fantastic Brooks, who racked up 19 points to lead the Pirates' scoring.

Other scorers in double figures for the Pirates were Leonard Bishop with 18 and Tom Hicks with 17.

Mike Tweedy topped the Indians scoring with 23 points, he was followed by Jim Fingers, who netted 14.

In the most evenly matched game of the tournament, the Bloomfield Wildcats forced the Bell City Cubs into constant floor mistakes and capitalized on them.

Bloomfield led most of the game but Bell City caught fire in the waning moments and managed to close to within three points late in the fourth period.

Coach Tom Hewgley's and Charles Spoonhours' Purple Wildcats jumped into a 2-0 lead but fell back 4-2 as the Cubs scored one quick basket and two free throws.

The Wildcats' well known zone press rattled the Bell City quintet at the start of the game, enabling the Bloomfield squad to capatilize on lay-ups and an 18-8 first quarter lead.

Outcourt shooting of the Cats began to take its toll early in the second period. The host rolled into a 31-23 halftime edge.

Coach Street's Cubs stayed with the Wildcats in the third period and closed to within two points of the leaders with 4:32 remaining in he game, 46-44, but the Wildcats' press continued to give the surprising Cubs trouble and as the closing minute and a half rolled around the Cubs were forced into a fouling situation as Bloomfield put the ball on ice.

Terry Hesselrode took scoring honors for the Cubs. He netted 10 points and was the Bell City player in double figures. The Bloomfield defense held down the Cubs' scoring attack.

Glen Williamson netted 16 points to lead the Wildcats to victory.

Scott Central Upset In Quarterfinals

By Dan Spears

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Advancing to the semi - finals in the Cape Girardeau College high tournament last night were Howardville, Cape Central, Oran and Notre Dame of Cape.

Howardville sneaked past Illmo - Scott City in the first game 69-66.

Cape Central fought to 76-62 triumph over Scott Central.

Oran downed the Charleston BlueJays 73-60.

Notre Dame clipped Jackson 6-55.

Tomorrow night's action will see Cape Central and second ranked Notre Dame battling in the early game. First seeded Oran and Howardville will clash in the late game, at 8:30 p.m.

It was quite a game with Howardville and ISC trading the lead back and forth all night.

Howardville gained the lead on the Rams in the first quarter as it outscored them 18-16. With the constant blocking of shots by Howardville's Little, the Indians were only able to collect 16 points once again and went into the half trailing 36-32. There were only two fouls recorded in the first half between the teams. Overpowering their opponents in the third quarter the Rams advanced into the final period tied 56 all.

Leading late in the fourth period, 68-66, Glasper from Howardville sat the free throw line shooting one. He hit the charity toss assuring the Hawks' victory.

Glasper hit 20 and Little 16 points as they led the Hawks scoring. Crabtree and Payne swished 22 and 21 respectively for the Rams.

Dominating the ball game Cape Central scored a fairly easy victory over Scott Central.

The Tigers jumped to an early 24-15 lead and racked up a 44-28 half score. The Braves trailed the whole game and made a last minute surge as they popped in 24 points in the last quarter.

Cape Central's free throws held them in the game as they hit 16 of 24 for a 67 per cent average. Scott Central netted 14 of 25 for 58 per cent.

L. Johnson and Owens took the scoring honors for their teams as Johnson sacked 22 for the victors and Owens 23 for the losers.

Charleston, outhustling and outrebounding in the first quarter, gained an early lead on the top seeded Oran Eagles 19-13. Oran gained its advantage on the BlueJays in the second period as it scored 19 points to Charleston's 7. Charleston came back strong in the third period but got into foul trouble and had to lay off. Holding a 54-41 lead at the end of the three, the Eagles coasted into a victory.

The Eagles placed four men in double figures. F. Johnson hit 21, Hahn 15, J. Johnson 11, and Evans 10. Briggs got 19 for the BlueJays and teammate Brown collected 18.

In the predicted practice game, the Notre Dame Bulldogs from Cape won their ninth game of the year as they beat Jackson 68-55.

Committing mistakes the first half, the Indians dropped to a 21-14 first quarter score and a 36-25 deficit at intermission. It was Notre Dame's fast break that clinched the game for it.

Also adding punch to the victory was the famous 2-1-2 zone defense which Jackson could not get through.

The Dogs' big man, Flaker, led the scoring for them. He got 29 points. D. Clippard and B. Lewis scored 20 and 15 respectively for the underdogs.

Jets' Namath Relieved

New York AP - They laughed when Joe Namath was wheeled into the operating room, and breathed a sigh of relief when he was wheeled out.

Namath, the New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback, underwent a complicated double knee operation Wednesday that team physician Dr. James A. Nicholas said was successful and should allow him to run "considerably better" next season.

The cause of the merriment before the operation was the slight goatee Namath has begun to grow.

The operation at Lenox Hill Hospital was performed by Nicholas.

Nicholas said the operation consisted of the removal of torn lateral cartilage from Namath's right knee as well as some "loose bodies" from the knee joint and the transfer of some healthy tendon from the back of his leg above the knee to replace damaged tendon in the joint.

Namath's leg will be in a full-length cast for five or six weeks and he will remain in the hospital for two or three weeks.

Mo. Valley Teams Take Tournament Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three of the four Missouri Valley basketball teams playing in tournaments won their games Thursday night.

St. Louis, playing in the Far West tourney at Portland, Ore., defeated Oregon State 64-52 in a consolation round. Bob Cole topped St. Louis with 19 points and Rich Niemann added 16. Niemann also was the defensive standout, destroying Oregon State's offensive patterns.

Second-ranked Louisville won its 10th straight game, beating Syracuse 75-71 to advance to the finals of the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia. Louisville meets Princeton for the championship.

Bradley beat Tennessee 60-53 in the first round of the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans. Joe Allen and Al Smith each put in 20 points for Bradley, which meets Utah for the championship tonight.

Drake lost to Southern Methodist in two overtimes, 84-81 in the opening round of the Sun Carnival tourney at El Paso, Tex. Drake overcame a 14-point halftime deficit to tie SMU 66-66 at the end of regulation play and the first overtime ended 77-77. A pair of free throws and a layup by Bob Begert gave SMU the margin in the second overtime.

Los Alamos, N.M., derives its name from the lowly cottonwood tree.

SELLING'S SIMPLE SECRET

A top sales producer was asked to explain the secret of his success at his company's annual sales convention.

Not a fellow to underestimate the difficulties, he fortified himself with a drink. One drink led to another, and another, and another. Thus he didn't have much to say when he staggered to his feet to address his listeners.

But what he did say was more than enough. With a wide, all encompassing sweep of his arms -- just before he fell flat on his face -- he urged his listeners to "See the Poeple!"

This "see the people" selling concept was the secret of his success. Quite possibly it is an element of success in every field of human endeavor.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Happy New Year, the time of a new beginning. The time for resolutions. A poem by an unknown poet of the past can give us the basis for our resolve—

FACING THE NEW YEAR

To follow through the coming year
The light which God gives us:
The light of Truth, wherever it may lead;
The light of Freedom, revealing new opportunities for individual development and social service;
The light of Faith, opening new visions of the better world to be;
The light of Love, daily binding brother to brother and man to God in ever closer bonds of friendship and affection.
Guided by this light,
We shall go forward to the work of another year with steadfastness and confidence.

Scott Central Upset In Quarterfinals

By Dan Spears

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Advancing to the semi - finals in the Cape Girardeau College high tournament last night were Howardville, Cape Central, Oran and Notre Dame of Cape.

Howardville sneaked past Illmo - Scott City in the first game 69-66.

Cape Central fought to 76-62 triumph over Scott Central.

Oran downed the Charleston BlueJays 73-60.

Notre Dame clipped Jackson 6-55.

Tomorrow night's action will see Cape Central and second ranked Notre Dame battling in the early game. First seeded Oran and Howardville will clash in the late game, at 8:30 p.m.

It was quite a game with Howardville and ISC trading the lead back and forth all night.

Howardville gained the lead on the Rams in the first quarter as it outscored them 18-16. With the constant blocking of shots by Howardville's Little, the Indians were only able to collect 16 points once again and went into the half trailing 36-32. There were only two fouls recorded in the first half between the teams. Overpowering their opponents in the third quarter the Rams advanced into the final period tied 56 all.

Leading late in the fourth period, 68-66, Glasper from Howardville sat the free throw line shooting one. He hit the charity toss assuring the Hawks' victory.

Glasper hit 20 and Little 16 points as they led the Hawks scoring. Crabtree and Payne swished 22 and 21 respectively for the Rams.

Relatives Visit At Matthews

MATTHEWS -- Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Proffer of St. Louis were Christmas Day guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ratcliff. The Ratcliffs were surprised Tuesday with a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Clem Scribner and daughter of Nokomis, Ill., and Mrs. Louie Mullen and granddaughter of Flint, Mich. Both families were former neighbors. On Thursday they had as dinner guests Dr. and Mrs. William C. Critchlow and children, Tom, Michael, and Debbie; Jimmy Critchlow of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Critchlow of Charleston, W. Va.

Mrs. Pearl Green and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore went to Columbus, Miss., Friday where they spent the holidays with Mrs. Green's daughter, Mrs. Louise Hudson and family.

Pvt. Michael Sibley of Fort Leonard Wood will return there on Jan. 3 after having spent the holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Sibley.

Misses Leslie and Brenda Jackson, students at Harding College, Searcy, Ark., are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson.

Mrs. M. H. Radcliffe was a guest on Christmas Day at a family gathering at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Hattie Sherwood, at New Madrid.

Pete Anderson returned to his home in Flint, Mich., Monday after visiting here with his aunt, Mrs. C. O. Hawkins.

Mrs. W. A. Rogers of Plattsburg is spending the holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rogers. They and Bill Rogers of St. Louis and Miss Madge Bennett were Christmas Eve dinner guests of Mrs. Clifford Sutton.

Misses Veda and Glennie Hoggett, students at the School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hoggett.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Gaines of Fulton are spending the holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. James Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Alsup and daughters, Pamela and Carolyn, of Amory, Miss., returned to their home Tuesday after having spent the holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Parsons. Arriving in time for Christmas dinner with the family, but two days behind their planned schedule because of hazardous highway conditions, were Mrs. Florence Wilson and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stowell Hardin, and children from Fort Knox, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stone and children, Carole, Joe, and Jane, of Belleville, Ill., and Wade Waters and son, Steven, of Bryan, Ohio, returned Monday to their homes after having spent the holidays here with their mother, Mrs. L. D. Waters and family.

AT POTLATCH, A TREE CAN BE PART OF AMERICA'S LARGEST RENEWAL PROGRAM

More than 66 million acres of timberlands are now committed to the American Tree Farm System during this, its Silver Anniversary year of operation. The volunteer tree farm system for protecting and renewing forestlands was established by the wood products industry in 1941. Nearly forty years earlier Potlatch was one of three pioneering lumber firms to form the first timber protective association and build the first lookout station in the Nation. At Potlatch, keeping forests green and growing is a continuous investment that provides everlasting dividends in natural resources.

Potlatch sells: Bleached Paperboard, Bleached Pulp, Boards, Building Components, Business Papers, Corrugated Containers, Cut Stock, Dimension Lumber, Display Stands, EMSR Lumber, Facial Tissues, Fencing, Food Trays, Furniture Parts, Hardwoods, Industrial Woods, Laminated Beams and Decking, Mouldings, Paper Milk Cartons, Oak Flooring, Paneling, Paper Cups, Paper Napkins, Paper Plates, Place Mats, Plywood, Pre-Cut Utility Buildings, Pres-to-logs, Printing Papers, Siding, Specialty Papers, Toilet Tissue.

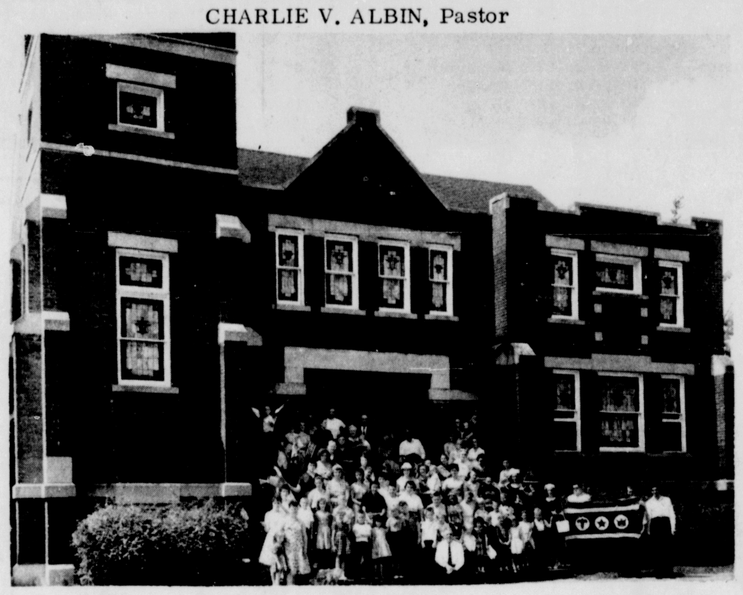
63 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

THIS WEEK SALUTING

The Church of God of Prophecy

CHARLIE V. ALBIN, Pastor



The Church of God of Prophecy was organized in Sikeston, July 18, 1929. Services were first conducted in a store building on Prosperity Street. A short time later property was donated and a building was built at 717 W. Kendall Street. The present building, located on the corner of S. New Madrid and Trotter Streets, was prchased in 1961.

World headquarters for The Church of God of Prophecy is located in Cleveland, Tennessee, with M.A. Tomlinson as General Overseer. The former overseer was hi father, A. J. Tomlinson.

Also located in Cleveland are four separate orphanages sponsored by the Sunday School Department. The Church has a radio program, "The Voice of Salvation with 163 stations carrying the program, as well as several other musical and meditation programs.

FIELDS OF THE WOOD, known as the Biblical Wonder of the Twentieth Century, is a project of the church's marking program. This is located in Cherokee County, North Carolina, at the foot of the Great Smokie Mountains where thousands of tourist visit each week. The Church of Prophecy Markers Association sponsors markers in Nassau, Bahamas, Cherokee County, North Carolina, Mount Hattin in Israel and many others. There is a fleet of airplanes known as the White Angel Fleet. These planes are used on good-will tours over the nation, airport programs and are also known as the flying markers.

The youth department of the church is known as the Victory Leaders Band with 55,556 members. Youth camps are conducted in every state during the summer vacation. Winter Retreats are held in many states during Christmas holidays when students are out of school. Youth Life Teams, World Missions Corps and tract distribution are among other activities and interest of the young people.

The Womens' Missionary Band sponsors many missions and missionaries throughout the world. The second Sunday each month is set aside for a special mission offering.

A few of the prominent teachings of the Church are, Repentance, Justification, Regeneration, Born Again, Sanctification, Holiness, Water Baptism, Baptism with the Holy Ghost, Speaking in Tongues, Divine Healing, The Lord's Supper, Washing the Saint's Feet, Tithing and Giving, Pre-Millennial Second of Jesus, Resurrection, Total Alistinence from Liquor or Strong Drink, Against the use of Tobacco, Opium, etc., Against Divorce and Remarriage.

The Church was found this side of the Dark Ages on June 13, 1903 by A. J. Tomlinson in what is now known as the Fields of the Wood.

The present pastor, Charlie V. Albin, accepted thi pastorate in July, 1966. He extends a welcome to everyone to attend worship services. Call GR 1-2714 if you need his services or if youwould like to know more about the Bible Church of God.

Relatives Visit At Matthews

MATTHEWS -- Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Proffer of St. Louis were Christmas Day guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ratcliff. The Ratcliffs were surprised Tuesday with a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Clem Scribner and daughter of Nokomis, Ill., and Mrs. Louie Mullen and granddaughter of Flint, Mich. Both families were former neighbors. On Thursday they had as dinner guests Dr. and Mrs. William C. Critchlow and children, Tom, Michael, and Debbie; Jimmy Critchlow of Memphis, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Critchlow of Charleston, W. Va.

Mrs. Pearl Green and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore went to Columbus, Miss., Friday where they spent the holidays with Mrs. Green's daughter, Mrs. Louise Hudson and family.

Pvt. Michael Sibley of Fort Leonard Wood will return there on Jan. 3 after having spent the holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Sibley.

Misses Leslie and Brenda Jackson, students at Harding College, Searcy, Ark., are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson.

Mrs. M. H. Radcliffe was a guest on Christmas Day at a family gathering at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Hattie Sherwood, at New Madrid.

Pete Anderson returned to his home in Flint, Mich., Monday after visiting here with his aunt, Mrs. C. O. Hawkins.

Mrs. W. A. Rogers of Plattsburg is spending the holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rogers. They and Bill Rogers of St. Louis and Miss Madge Bennett were Christmas Eve dinner guests of Mrs. Clifford Sutton.

Misses Veda and Glennie Hoggett, students at the School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hoggett.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Gaines of Fulton are spending the holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. James Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Alsup and daughters, Pamela and Carolyn, of Amory, Miss., returned to their home Tuesday after having spent the holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Parsons. Arriving in time for Christmas dinner with the family, but two days behind their planned schedule because of hazardous highway conditions, were Mrs. Florence Wilson and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stowell Hardin, and children from Fort Knox, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stone and children, Carole, Joe, and Jane, of Belleville, Ill., and Wade Waters and son, Steven, of Bryan, Ohio, returned Monday to their homes after having spent the holidays here with their mother, Mrs. L. D. Waters and family.

AT POTLATCH, A TREE CAN BE PART OF AMERICA'S LARGEST RENEWAL PROGRAM

More than 66 million acres of timberlands are now committed to the American Tree Farm System during this, its Silver Anniversary year of operation. The volunteer tree farm system for protecting and renewing forestlands was established by the wood products industry in 1941. Nearly forty years earlier Potlatch was one of three pioneering lumber firms to form the first timber protective association and build the first lookout station in the Nation. At Potlatch, keeping forests green and growing is a continuous investment that provides everlasting dividends in natural resources.

Potlatch sells: Bleached Paperboard, Bleached Pulp, Boards, Building Components, Business Papers, Corrugated Containers, Cut Stock, Dimension Lumber, Display Stands, EMSR Lumber, Facial Tissues, Fencing, Food Trays, Furniture Parts, Hardwoods, Industrial Woods, Laminated Beams and Decking, Mouldings, Paper Milk Cartons, Oak Flooring, Paneling, Paper Cups, Paper Napkins, Paper Plates, Place Mats, Plywood, Pre-Cut Utility Buildings, Pres-to-logs, Printing Papers, Siding, Specialty Papers, Toilet Tissue.

The U.S. Post Office Department never abbreviates the names of Alaska, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Ohio and Utah.

King Louis XIV of France ruled longest of any European monarch—72 years.

Buy a Dryer.

A busy mother needs a break in her routine. And there's one chore that can easily be done away with: the old-fashioned drudgery of hanging up wet wash.

A modern clothes dryer does away with the drudgery—and does the drying better. It dries gently... fluffs up clothes. Clothes pins and whipping winds wear out clothes. And wives. Dryers don't.

A dryer, you know, is essential for proper laundering of the amazing new perma-press "miracle" fabrics.

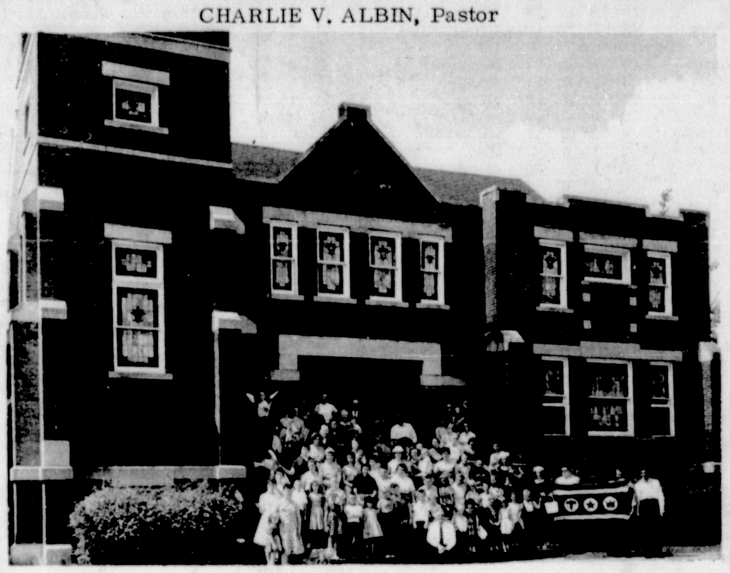
THIS WEEK SALUTING The Church of God of Prophecy

63 In A Series To Acquaint You With The Churches In This Area

CHARLIE V. ALBIN, Pastor



The Church of God of Prophecy was organized in Sikeston, July 18, 1929. Services were first conducted in a store building on Prosperity Street. A short time later property was donated and a building was built at 717 W. Kendall Street. The present buiding, located on the corner of S. New Madrid and Trotter Streets, was prchased in 1961.

World headquarters for The Church of God of Prophecy is located in Cleveland, Tennessee, with M.A. Tomlinson as General Overseer. The former overseer was hi father, A. J. Tomlinson.

Also located in Cleveland are four separate orphanages sponsored by the Sunday School Department. The Church has a radio program, "The Voice of Salvation with 163 stations carrying the program, as well as several other musical and meditation programs.

FIELDS OF THE WOOD, known as the Biblical Wonder of the Twentieth Century, is a project of the church's marking program. This is located in Cherokee County, North Carolina, at the foot of the Great Smokie Mountains where thousands of tourist visit each week. The Church of Prophecy Markers Association sponsors markers in Nassau, Bahamas, Cherokee County, North Carolina, Mount Hattin in Israel and many others. There is a fleet of airplanes known as the White Angel Fleet. These planes are used on good-will tours over the nation, airport programs and are also known as the flying markers.

The youth department of the church is known as the Victory Leaders Band with 55,556 members. Youth camps are conducted in every state during the summer vacation. Winter Retreats are held in many states during Christmas holidays when students are out of school. Youth Life Teams, World Missions Corps and tract distribution are among other activities and interest of the young people.

The Womens' Missionary Band sponsors many missions and missionaries throughout the world. The second Sunday each month is set aside for a special mission offering.

A few of the prominent teachings of the Church are, Repentance, Justification, Regeneration, Born Again, Sanctification, Holiness, Water Baptism, Baptism with the Holy Ghost, Speaking in Tongues, Divine Healing, The Lord's Supper, Washing the Saint's Feet, Tithing and Giving, Pre-Millennial Second of Jesus, Resurrection, Total Alistinence from Liquor or Strong Drink, Against the use of Tobacco, Opium, etc., Against Divorce and Remarriage.

The Church was found this side of the Dark Ages on June 13, 1903 by A. J. Tomlinson in what is now known as the Fields of the Wood.

The present pastor, Charlie V. Albin, accepted thi pastorate in July, 1966. He extends a welcome to everyone to attend worship services. Call GR 1-2714 if you need his services or if youwould like to know more about the Bible Church of God.

CHEWING ICE—A CRREL Ice Chipper hacks away at a mound of ice to flatten the surface for a smooth aircraft runway in the arctic regions. Calumet and Hecla, Inc., of Calumet, Mich., built the cylinder-shaped chipping blade, which is attached to a tractor. CRREL conceived the idea of the blade, with metal teeth so placed that they chip, then smooth ice surfaces for road, runway and building construction.

SKIRTING THE ICE—An Air Cushion Mobile moves over rugged ice surfaces at a cruising speed of 35 miles per hour. The test mobile, called a tri-cell plenum vehicle and designed by CRREL for transportation purposes in arctic regions, actually lifts itself a few inches above the surface by means of its skirt-lifting and harrow disk attachment underneath. Bell Aerosystems Co., Buffalo, N.Y., built the mobile, which can climb 10-degree slopes against a strong wind and can cross five-foot wide ditches.

When I Was A Boy

Since the publication of the late H. J. (Jack) Blanton's "When I Was A Boy" reminiscenes in book form in 1942, they have become increasingly popular. All the books have been sold, and are difficult to obtain. Because of the increasing demand for these articles, the Standard is reprinting them during the next few weeks in the belief that its readers, young and old, will enjoy reading about 70 to 100 years ago. Clip and save them.

THE MOST DREADFUL DAY

When I was a boy the most dreadful day of the year was the one on which the men-folk were called on "To put up the stoves. That day was dreadful because winter was at hand and many cold, dreary weeks were about to do their worst. What made it particularly dreadful, however, was what happened when the job progressed to the point where the stovepipe had to be reckoned with.

My father, though one of the best loved men of his generation, had red hair and the sort of temper that always is attributed to people whose hair is that way. He meant well, too, when the task was begun. Probably resolved to keep sweet and avoid the sinful remarks incident to previous occasions, he would tell some of his best jokes while moving the stove into place and find time for a few snatches of song. My mother, hoping for the best but fearing the worst, encouraged him as best she could by undue laughter at the jokes and by joining in the singing.

The stovepipe always spoiled everyting. Locating the stove, dragging it into position, and shining it up with polish and brush and putting zinc under it, was never fraught with any vexations or the cause of any irreligion. Always the poor husband was deluded by his success that far into believing the balance of the job would be easy.

So far as the Devil was concerned, the husband needed no evil suggestions when the matter of placing the stovepipe into position was reached. That creation really had the Devil outclassed at making a man fall from grace. All our stovepipes were made by Harvey Lambert, the local tinner. Harvey made them exactly like all the other tinners on earth did. The fact that one end of a section had to fit over the end of another seemed never to have occurred to them.

First, the section leading directly from the stove would be put into place. Usually little difficulty was experienced. While trying to force the next section, which was exactly the same size, over the upper part of the first one, the first one usually would be wobbled out of place. Hands became irritated and so did tempers, as the poor husband struggled to expand or contract the pipe or to otherwise make it fit in or over the other pipe.

Eventually, however, the job would be completed to where an elbow had to be put into the waiting flue hole. It was at this point that women vanished from the picture. They just could not let such language fall upon their ears or gaze upon the poor wretch who was making such a mess of a necessary job. I believe the most preplexing problem with which science ever wrestled - what would happen if an irresistible force met an immovable object - was inspired by the sight of a strong-willed man trying to put an old time stovepipe together.

I recall how my father, failing in his efforts to get the elbow in place, snatched the long pipe out of my brother Charley's hands and whacked him across the back with it. I fled to the trundle bed, jumped in and covered up my head, feeling sure murder was being committed. My mother got Charley to a place of safety, leaving my father and the stovepipe to fight it out as best they could. Eventually, with soot from head to foot, face almost as black as tar, and whiskers wet with perspiration, he forsook his fireside and stalked off towards town. If ever a man was justified in taking two tall toddies like Charley Holtzclaw dispensed in the back room of his drug store, he was.

In due time Harvey Lambert, the author and maker of those stovepipes, came down and did the job. It was no trouble at all for him. The ability of tinners to put the things together and the inability of anybody else to do it without creating credits in hades, always puzzled me. Or maybe they made stovepipes that way with an eye to future fees from those who made futile failures.

What made matters all the more humiliating for men of that day was the success ma and the girls always had, when no tinner was available, after pa had given up in disgust and gone out to drown his sorrows. The women claimed it was because they had more patience than men. Still, with characteristic feminine perversity and with full knowledge of what was going to happen, they tricked the head of the family into undertaking the job again the very next fall. The only husbands who escaped this awful ordeal were the ones whose will was law in the family. They made the women leave the stove and stovepipes up when less docile wives were having them moved to the woodshed for the summer.

The coming of basement and furnace heat has put the stovepipe into what Grover Cleveland called innocuous desuetude, which has been quite a setback to Satan. And to further help matters, modern factories which make stovepipe put a crimp around one end for the purpose of facilitating a connection with another pipe.

THE OLD TIME PICNIC

When I was a boy the picnic flourished in all its glory. Nearly every township had at least one a year. It was an expression of the hospitality which characterized pioneer life here in northeast Missouri where most of the early settlers came from Virginia and Kentucky.

The Florida picnic, staged annually on the bank of the Salt River, in the south edge of Mark Twain's birthplace, was the biggest of them all. However, it was not held in the great humorist's honor, for during the early eighties his fame had hardly reached that far. Besides, the only tradition local people had of the Clemens family was that it was very shiftless and no credit to a thriving community like Florida. The picnic was held there because all roads from several counties led to that village, where two large flour mills, a huge general merchandise store, plow and wagon shop and the Buchanan Tavern attracted business from far and near. One of the flour mills was operated by a water wheel. This wheel, turned by the current, provided power for machinery in the large mill building.

Unlike at public gatherings in this modern and mercenary age, the elaborate picnic dinner was free to all comers. For two or three days in advance housewives of the community worked over hot stoves, preparing viands that would be a credit to the family. Instead of such division of labor as farm women now practice for a neighborhood party, with one cook preparing the meat, another the bread, another the cakes, another pies, and so on through the entire menu, every woman was a law unto herself for the picnic occasion. Tubs, baskets and boxes were required when she began to pack her food for transportation to the appointed place. Roast beef, country ham, fried chicken, cakes of several varieties, two or three sorts of pies, pickles, boiled eggs, salads and hot coffee always were on the menu.

Each family had a place to itself. Tablecloths were spread upon the bluegrass sward at the noon hour. To it were transferred the loads of tempting food that had been prepared in the home kitchen. Pies were arranged in stacks of six to ten. With deft strokes of the knife one of the women folk reduced them to quarters but left them in the original stacks. It was that way with the jelly cakes, too. The sight of those tempting stacks, from which the guest picked slices, will never vanish from the memories of people of that era. The alternate layers of yellow cake and red jelly were as pleasing to the palate as they were to the eye. From the tablecloth pa and ma and girls would pick up and pass huge platters of beef, ham and chicken, home baked bread, pickles and other substantials, repeating the process until nobody wanted more. Then pies and cakes would be carried around until everybody was satisified.

Democracy was at its best at those picnics. Everything was free to everybody. Everybody was an invited guest. At the noon hour Uncle Mart Clark, with white whiskers on his chin and a red sash around shoulders and waist, always mounted his horse, riding around the grounds, proclaiming that dinner was about to be served, and inviting everybody to partake. People then swarmed out to where family spreads were waiting and eating until their stomach were gorged with food.

After dinner, while weary women gathered up the fragments and stored containers away in wagons, the older people gathered around the speaker's stand, from which a Congressman or some other prominent Democrat held forth. A lot of dozing and napping was done by overfed auditors. While recent hosts were feeding their teams, diversions of many sorts were organized, including baseball, horseshoe pitching, wrestling, racing and target shooting. Young couples paraded aimlessly, arm in arm or hand in hand, around the grounds, or secluded themselves in buggies, or stirred up the sawdust on a dancing floor that were very unpopular with pastors and be-whiskered deacons.

ENTERTAINING THE PREACHER

When a Revival Meeting was being held all the women wanted to have the pastor and the visiting evangelist as dinner guests. Those were big occasions.

Everybody was threatened with dire consequences if there was any misbehavior. No meeting was orthodox during that period without some terrific assaults on Old John Barleycorn. The visiting evangelist was particularly vehement and hostile toward alcohol in any form or for any purpose. Two preachers dined at our house one day.

My sister Lillie had been delegated to prepare the dessert. When too late to call a halt, my mother discovered that she had made wine sauce for the pudding. Then, inwardly trembling with fear and being sure our entire family would be ejected from the Baptist Church for the sinful thing that was about to happen, she tried to prepare herself for a visitation of righteous wrath. Never, however, was a condemned prisoner more relieved by a reprieve which snatched him to freedom from the electric chair than was my mother when each of the preachers asked for a second helping of that delightful pudding.

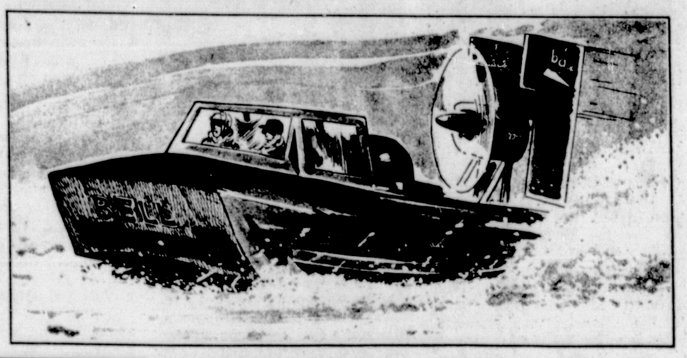
CHEWING ICE—A CRREL Ice Chipper hacks away at a mound of ice to flatten the surface for a smooth aircraft runway in the arctic regions. Calumet and Hecla, Inc., of Calumet, Mich., built the cylinder-shaped chipping blade, which is attached to a tractor. CRREL conceived the idea of the blade, with metal teeth so placed that they chip, then smooth ice surfaces for road, runway and building construction.



SKIRTING THE ICE—An Air Cushion Mobile moves over rugged ice surfaces at a cruising speed of 35 miles per hour. The test mobile, called a tri-cell plenum vehicle and designed by CRREL for transportation purposes in arctic regions, actually lifts itself a few inches above the surface by means of its skirt-lifting and harrow disk attachment underneath. Bell Aerosystems Co., Buffalo, N.Y., built the mobile, which can climb 10-degree slopes against a strong wind and can cross five-foot wide ditches.

When I Was A Boy

Since the publication of the late H. J. (Jack) Blanton's "When I Was A Boy" reminiscenes in book form in 1942, they have become increasingly popular. All the books have been sold, and are difficult to obtain. Because of the increasing demand for these articles, the Standard is reprinting them during the next few weeks in the belief that its readers, young and old, will enjoy reading about 70 to 100 years ago. Clip and save them.

THE MOST DREADFUL DAY

When I was a boy the most dreadful day of the year was the one on which the men-folk were called on "To put up the stoves. That day was dreadful because winter was at hand and many cold, dreary weeks were about to do their worst. What made it particularly dreadful, however, was what happened when the job progressed to the point where the stovepipe had to be reckoned with.

My father, though one of the best loved men of his generation, had red hair and the sort of temper that always is attributed to people whose hair is that way. He meant well, too, when the task was begun. Probably resolved to keep sweet and avoid the sinful remarks incident to previous occasions, he would tell some of his best jokes while moving the stove into place and find time for a few snatches of song. My mother, hoping for the best but fearing the worst, encouraged him as best she could by undue laughter at the jokes and by joining in the singing.

The stovepipe always spoiled everyting. Locating the stove, dragging it into position, and shining it up with polish and brush and putting zinc under it, was never fraught with any vexations or the cause of any irreligion. Always the poor husband was deluded by his success that far into believing the balance of the job would be easy.

So far as the Devil was concerned, the husband needed no evil suggestions when the matter of placing the stovepipe into position was reached. That creation really had the Devil outclassed at making a man fall from grace. All our stovepipes were made by Harvey Lambert, the local tinner. Harvey made them exactly like all the other tinners on earth did. The fact that one end of a section had to fit over the end of another seemed never to have occurred to them.

First, the section leading directly from the stove would be put into place. Usually little difficulty was experienced. While trying to force the next section, which was exactly the same size, over the upper part of the first one, the first one usually would be wobbled out of place. Hands became irritated and so did tempers, as the poor husband struggled to expand or contract the pipe or to otherwise make it fit in or over the other pipe.

Eventually, however, the job would be completed to where an elbow had to be put into the waiting flue hole. It was at this point that women vanished from the picture. They just could not let such language fall upon their ears or gaze upon the poor wretch who was making such a mess of a necessary job. I believe the most preplexing problem with which science ever wrestled - what would happen if an irresistible force met an immovable object - was inspired by the sight of a strong-willed man trying to put an old time stovepipe together.

I recall how my father, failing in his efforts to get the elbow in place, snatched the long pipe out of my brother Charley's hands and whacked him across the back with it. I fled to the trundle bed, jumped in and covered up my head, feeling sure murder was being committed. My mother got Charley to a place of safety, leaving my father and the stovepipe to fight it out as best they could. Eventually, with soot from head to foot, face almost as black as tar, and whiskers wet with perspiration, he forsook his fireside and stalked off towards town. If ever a man was justified in taking two tall toddies like Charley Holtzclaw dispensed in the back room of his drug store, he was.

In due time Harvey Lambert, the author and maker of those stovepipes, came down and did the job. It was no trouble at all for him. The ability of tinners to put the things together and the inability of anybody else to do it without creating credits in hades, always puzzled me. Or maybe they made stovepipes that way with an eye to future fees from those who made futile failures.

What made matters all the more humiliating for men of that day was the success ma and the girls always had, when no tinner was available, after pa had given up in disgust and gone out to drown his sorrows. The women claimed it was because they had more patience than men. Still, with characteristic feminine perversity and with full knowledge of what was going to happen, they tricked the head of the family into undertaking the job again the very next fall. The only husbands who escaped this awful ordeal were the ones whose will was law in the family. They made the women leave the stove and stovepipes up when less docile wives were having them moved to the woodshed for the summer.

The coming of basement and furnace heat has put the stovepipe into what Grover Cleveland called innocuous desuetude, which has been quite a setback to Satan. And to further help matters, modern factories which make stovepipe put a crimp around one end for the purpose of facilitating a connection with another pipe.

THE OLD TIME PICNIC

When I was a boy the picnic flourished in all its glory. Nearly every township had at least one a year. It was an expression of the hospitality which characterized pioneer life here in northeast Missouri where most of the early settlers came from Virginia and Kentucky.

The Florida picnic, staged annually on the bank of the Salt River, in the south edge of Mark Twain's birthplace, was the biggest of them all. However, it was not held in the great humorist's honor, for during the early eighties his fame had hardly reached that far. Besides, the only tradition local people had of the Clemens family was that it was very shiftless and no credit to a thriving community like Florida. The picnic was held there because all roads from several counties led to that village, where two large flour mills, a huge general merchandise store, plow and wagon shop and the Buchanan Tavern attracted business from far and near. One of the flour mills was operated by a water wheel. This wheel, turned by the current, provided power for machinery in the large mill building.

Unlike at public gatherings in this modern and mercenary age, the elaborate picnic dinner was free to all comers. For two or three days in advance housewives of the community worked over hot stoves, preparing viands that would be a credit to the family. Instead of such division of labor as farm women now practice for a neighborhood party, with one cook preparing the meat, another the bread, another the cakes, another pies, and so on through the entire menu, every woman was a law unto herself for the picnic occasion. Tubs, baskets and boxes were required when she began to pack her food for transportation to the appointed place. Roast beef, country ham, fried chicken, cakes of several varieties, two or three sorts of pies, pickles, boiled eggs, salads and hot coffee always were on the menu.

Each family had a place to itself. Tablecloths were spread upon the bluegrass sward at the noon hour. To it were transferred the loads of tempting food that had been prepared in the home kitchen. Pies were arranged in stacks of six to ten. With deft strokes of the knife one of the women folk reduced them to quarters but left them in the original stacks. It was that way with the jelly cakes, too. The sight of those tempting stacks, from which the guest picked slices, will never vanish from the memories of people of that era. The alternate layers of yellow cake and red jelly were as pleasing to the palate as they were to the eye. From the tablecloth pa and ma and girls would pick up and pass huge platters of beef, ham and chicken, home baked bread, pickles and other substantials, repeating the process until nobody wanted more. Then pies and cakes would be carried around until everybody was satisified.

Democracy was at its best at those picnics. Everything was free to everybody. Everybody was an invited guest. At the noon hour Uncle Mart Clark, with white whiskers on his chin and a red sash around shoulders and waist, always mounted his horse, riding around the grounds, proclaiming that dinner was about to be served, and inviting everybody to partake. People then swarmed out to where family spreads were waiting and eating until their stomach were gorged with food.

After dinner, while weary women gathered up the fragments and stored containers away in wagons, the older people gathered around the speaker's stand, from which a Congressman or some other prominent Democrat held forth. A lot of dozing and napping was done by overfed auditors. While recent hosts were feeding their teams, diversions of many sorts were organized, including baseball, horseshoe pitching, wrestling, racing and target shooting. Young couples paraded aimlessly, arm in arm or hand in hand, around the grounds, or secluded themselves in buggies, or stirred up the sawdust on a dancing floor that were very unpopular with pastors and bewhiskered deacons.

ENTERTAINING THE PREACHER

When a Revival Meeting was being held all the women wanted to have the pastor and the visiting evangelist as dinner guests. Those were big occasions.

Everybody was threatened with dire consequences if there was any misbehavior. No meeting was orthodox during that period without some terrific assaults on Old John Barleycorn. The visiting evangelist was particularly vehement and hostile toward alcohol in any form or for any purpose. Two preachers dined at our house one day.

My sister Lillie had been delegated to prepare the dessert. When too late to call a halt, my mother discovered that she had made wine sauce for the pudding. Then, inwardly trembling with fear and being sure our entire family would be ejected from the Baptist Church for the sinful thing that was about to happen, she tried to prepare herself for a visitation of righteous wrath. Never, however, was a condemned prisoner more relieved by a reprieve which snatched him to freedom from the electric chair than was my mother when each of the preachers asked for a second helping of that delightful pudding.

Small Business Administrator Eugene P. Foley has been trying to cut red tape in his agency. He knew the situation had really got out of hand when a loan applicant told a loan processor, "Now that I have completed all the forms, I've forgotten what I wanted the money for."

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
December 30, 1916

Nearly 400 accounts were opened by children with the Citizens Bank during Christmas time. These little fellows do not speak of this bank as the Citizen's Bank, but as Mr. Dover's bank, and some of the small boys feel that they are not breaking any rules of propriety by calling Mr. Dover by the name of Charlie, as long as he is their banker.

J. W. Black has sold his interest in the building and business of the real estate firm of Black and Dunaway to Dr. I. H. Dunaway and has secured rooms in the People's Bank Building where he will continue the real estate business under the name of the J. Wesley Black Real Estate Co. He has secured the services of C. E. Felker as an assistant, and they propose to handle city property as well as farm property.

40 Years Ago
December 30, 1926

Mrs. Pelma Kirk, formerly of Sikeston, and mother of George W. Kirk of Charleston, died suddenly of acute indigestion on December 15 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. E. McCoy, at Monte Vista, Colo., where she was visiting.

Dr. and Mrs. Handy Smith entertained with a dinner Monday evening, complimentary to their son Linn, who is a student at the Missouri University. Covers were laid for the Misses Anita Winchester, Lottie Dover, Dorothy Lillard, Elizabeth Stallcup, Margaret Woods of Columbia, and Jack Bowman, Charleston Matthews III, John Fox, Milton Blanton, Billie Keith and Linn Smith.

Bell City -- Posses today searched the swamps in this vicinity for two bandits who late on Thursday held up the Bank of Bell City and after locking the cashier in the vault, escaped with $5,000 in loot, without alarming the residents of the village.

A baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Arterburn on Christmas Day, which shows that Santa Claus is a wonderful being and carried a varied line of wants in his stock.

30 Years Ago
December 30, 1936

A freezing rain that fell Friday night and Saturday crippled communications, slowed traffic, damaged private property and caused disconnection of many electric light lines. Residents said the sleet storm was the most severe in nine years.

Sikeston and Matthews divided a doubleheader here Friday night at the locals' first home game of the season. Coach Cletis Bidewell's team won 24 to 18; the girls coached by Miss Mary Kirkendall, lost 48 to 28.

J. F. Cox, Jr., a former Sikeston resident, bought the Womack Drug Store in the Marquette Hotel building in Cape Friday from Floyd Womack and his father, H. B. Womack of Oran.

Mrs. Arta Nall, mother of Orville Nall of Sikeston, died at the St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau Friday.

20 Years Ago
December 30, 1946

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. James R. Neal of Morehouse on Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Seabaugh, a daughter on December 24. She weighed eight pounds, six ounces and was named Margaret. Mrs. Seabaugh and daughter are at Sikeston General Hospital.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rister of Sikeston, Friday, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Luster Freeland of Sikeston are parents of a daughter born on Friday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Cloud of Sikeston on Friday, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ozment daughter born Friday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Layton of Sikeston, Saturday, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook of Sikeston are parents of a daughter born Saturday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ainley of Matthews on Saturday, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison of Sikeston are parents of a daughter bon Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith of Sikeston, Sunday, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pitts of Essex are parents of a son born Sunday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Templeton of Sikeston, Sunday, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Chaney of Canalous are parents of a son born Sunday.

Announcement of the wedding date of Ida Edwards Rose and Daniel E. Malone was disclosed at a luncheon at the Dunn Hotel on December 28. The sisters of the bride-to-be presented to each guest a pink rose with a card attached on white ribbon inscribed with the words, "Ida and Danny, February 18, 1947."

Mr. and Mrs. Burt H. Rowe entertained at a dinner Saurday evening on their 20th wedding anniversary.

James Newton Brown, well-known businessman and farmer of Matthews, died at his home December 24.

The Prayer For Today

From The Upper Room

FRIDAY, December 30, 1966

He that is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted. (Matthew 23:11 - 12)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to see the importance of serving others. Give us a glimpse of the humility and love of Thy Son, Jesus, that we may follow His example. In His name we pray. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: The letter about those wonderful teenagers who helped a mother entertain a restless 3 - year old child on a cross-country train trip brought back one of my fondest memories.

Eighteen years ago I was traveling by train from Oregon to the Midwest. I had a 3-year-old boy and an infant to care for, and I had my hands full. Four sailors noticed my plight. They took over the 3-year - old completely. One sailor had a harmonica and the youngster was intrigued by it. They treated the child to dinner and to lunch. One of the sailors held the baby for me -- said he had an infant the same age at home and it was a treat for him.

My son is 21 years old now, but he remembers that trip to this day. He even recalls that when he spilled some potato chips, the sailors would not let him eat them off the floor.

In our rapidly moving society we fail to give credit to the thoughtful and kind people in the world. Thank you for printing letters that give them a well-earned pat on the back once in a while. It's refreshing to read about something besides problems for a change.-- B. J. J.

Dear B. J. J.: And it's good to write about something besides problems for a change. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an Episcopalian clergyman who happily admits that I have used your writing as a basis for some sermons.

I frequently notice that the problems you write about are the same problems I hear about. And have YOU noticed that the wife who complains about her husband's inadequacies and faults rarely blames herself when he loses interest?

May I suggest that the same feminine wiles that attracted her beloved during courtship never lose their appeal? A male rarely seduces a female -- it's usually the other way around. There is nothing undignified in enticing a husband. If a wife is wise, marriage can be the beginning of a deeper and more meaningful love. -- NO NAME PLEASE

Dear Sir: Your parishioners are fortunate. In addition to spiritual guidance they are getting some down - to - earth homey hints on living. Bravo!

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who is in her early 20's is happily married to a nice young man the same age.

Our concern is this: Both our daughter and our son-in-law are grossly overweight and out of shape. She loves to cook fattening foods and when they eat out they both order with no regard to quantity or caloric content.

Recently our son - in -law suggested driving 25 miles for barbecued ribs at 11:30 P.M. My husband made a remark about their love for food. Our daughter was miffed and snapped, "Eating is one of the great joys of life. We don't see any point in denying orselves."

Please comment. -- MRS. X

Dear Mrs.: You don't say how much overweight these two are, but I get the picture.

Gluttony is suicide. If these two fail to see the point perhaps a physician will one day explain it to them.

P.S. Has your son-in-law tried to buy life insurance lately?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom". Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

William W. Segers Jr.

FT. EUSTIS, VA. (AHTNC) -- William W. Segers Jr., 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie W. Segers, Route 1, Box 60, Bell City, Mo., was commissioned an Army second lieutenant upon graduation from Officer Candidate School at Ft. Eustis, Va., Dec. 15.

During the 23-week course, Lt. Segers was trained in supervising the transportation of military personnel and equipment by rail, water, land and air. He received extensive instruction in transporting combat troops and supplies over jungle terrain.

He was also trained in the operation and maintenance of vehicles used by the Transportation Corps.

The lieutenant entered the Army in January of this year.

DEL RIO, Tex. -- Second Lieutenant Terrill V. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan D. Walker of Rt. 1, Dexter, Mo., has been awarded U.S. Air Force silver pilot wings upon graduation at Laughlin AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant Walker is being assigned to MacDill AFB, Fla., for flying duty with the Tactical Air Command which provides combat reconnaissance, aerial firepower and assault airlift for U.S. Army forces.

A graduate of Bernie (Mo.) High School, he earned his B.S. degree in industrial arts in 1965 from Southeast Missouri State College. The lieutenant received his commission in 1965 upon completion of Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Max A. Ellison

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Max A. Ellison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Ellison of 106 S. Ingram, Sikeston, Mo., has completed four weeks of individual combat training at this Marine Corps Base.

During his more than 200 hours of training, he learned about weapons and combat techniques from combat veteran instructors. They taught him how to conduct patrols, detect and remove mines and booby traps and use the standard Marine Corps infantry weapons.

He will now receive at least four weeks of specialist training before being assigned to his first permanent unit. Marines going to combat units will get detailed training in the particular combat skill they are designated for. Those who are going into technical fields will receive their advanced training at one of a variety of technical schools throughout the country.

Dear Edior,

The blanket which was stolen from Ed Cline's grave on Thursday or Friday before Christmas was purchased at Carroll's Florist; in case the thief wants to pay for it. I would like to admit, also, I hope the person who took it will get to lie under before this holiday season ends.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ed Cline

In our parish, I was a little worried about the attitude of my little girl toward the Negro child who had entered her previously all-white class. Each afternoon I anxiously questioned Malinda about her day, but she never mentioned her new classmate.

"How do you like the new girl?" I finally asked.

"I like her fine," she answered, "but I don't like her coloring."

I interrupted with a tremulous sermon on the brotherhood of man.

"I know all about that, mother," she said. "But when she colors it's always the same, yellow, blue, and red."

Looking Back Over The Years

50 Years Ago
December 30, 1916

Nearly 400 accounts were opened by children with the Citizens Bank during Christmas time. These little fellows do not speak of this bank as the Citizen's Bank, but as Mr. Dover's bank, and some of the small boys feel that they are not breaking any rules of propriety by calling Mr. Dover by the name of Charlie, as long as he is their banker.

J. W. Black has sold his interest in the building and business of the real estate firm of Black and Dunaway to Dr. I. H. Dunaway and has secured rooms in the People's Bank Building where he will continue the real estate business under the name of the J. Wesley Black Real Estate Co. He has secured the services of C. E. Felker as an assistant, and they propose to handle city property as well as farm property.

Announcement of the wedding date of Ida Edwards Rose and Daniel E. Malone was disclosed at a luncheon at the Dunn Hotel on December 28. The sisters of the bride-to-be presented to each guest a pink rose with a card attached on white ribbon inscribed with the words, "Ida and Danny, February 18, 1947."

Mr. and Mrs. Burt H. Rowe entertained at a dinner Saurday evening on their 20th wedding anniversary.

James Newton Brown, well-known businessman and farmer of Matthews, died at his home December 24.

The Prayer For Today

From The Upper Room

FRIDAY, December 30, 1966

He that is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted. (Matthew 23:11 - 12)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to see the importance of serving others. Give us a glimpse of the humility and love of Thy Son, Jesus, that we may follow His example. In His name we pray. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: The letter about those wonderful teenagers who helped a mother entertain a restless 3 - year old child on a cross-country train trip brought back one of my fondest memories.

Eighteen years ago I was traveling by train from Oregon to the Midwest. I had a 3-year-old boy and an infant to care for, and I had my hands full. Four sailors noticed my plight. They took over the 3-year - old completely. One sailor had a harmonica and the youngster was intrigued by it. They treated the child to dinner and to lunch. One of the sailors held the baby for me -- said he had an infant the same age at home and it was a treat for him.

My son is 21 years old now, but he remembers that trip to this day. He even recalls that when he spilled some potato chips, the sailors would not let him eat them off the floor.

In our rapidly moving society we fail to give credit to the thoughtful and kind people in the world. Thank you for printing letters that give them a well-earned pat on the back once in a while. It's refreshing to read about something besides problems for a change.--B. J. J.

Dear B. J. J.: And it's good to write about something besides problems for a change. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an Episcopalian clergyman who happily admits that I have used your writing as a basis for some sermons.

I frequently notice that the problems you write about are the same problems I hear about. And have YOU noticed that the wife who complains about her husband's inadequacies and faults rarely blames herself when he loses interest?

May I suggest that the same feminine wiles that attracted her beloved during courtship never lose their appeal? A male rarely seduces a female -- it's usually the other way around. There is nothing undignified in enticing a husband. If a wife is wise, marriage can be the beginning of a deeper and more meaningful love. -- NO NAME PLEASE

Dear Sir: Your parishioners are fortunate. In addition to spiritual guidance they are getting some down - to - earth homey hints on living. Bravo!

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who is in her early 20's is happily married to a nice young man the same age.

Our concern is this: Both our daughter and our son-in-law are grossly overweight and out of shape. She loves to cook fattening foods and when they eat out they both order with no regard to quantity or caloric content.

Recently our son - in -law suggested driving 25 miles for barbecued ribs at 11:30 P.M. My husband made a remark about their love for food. Our daughter was miffed and snapped, "Eating is one of the great joys of life. We don't see any point in denying ourselves."

Please comment. -- MRS. X

Dear Mrs.: You don't say how much overweight these two are, but I get the picture.

Gluttony is suicide. If these two fail to see the point perhaps a physician will one day explain it to them.

P.S. Has your son-in-law tried to buy life insurance lately?

If you have trouble getting along with your parents. . . if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom". Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1966. There is one day left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1903, the Iroquois Theater in Chicago was destroyed by fire. Some 588 persons lost their lives in that blaze.

On this date:

In 1853, the Gadsden Purchase was made by a treaty with Mexico. The United States acquired what is now the southern part of New Mexico and Arizona for $15 million.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1966. There is one day left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1903, the Iroquois Theater in Chicago was destroyed by fire. Some 588 persons lost their lives in that blaze.

On this date:

In 1853, the Gadsden Purchase was made by a treaty with Mexico. The United States acquired what is now the southern part of New Mexico and Arizona for $15 million.

In 1865, the English author Rudyard Kipling, was born.

In 1943, U.S. Marines captured the airfield at Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

In 1945, military authorities in Berlin made public copies of Adolf Hitler's last will and his marriage contract with Eva Braun.

Ten years ago—The Hungarian Communist government, in response to an Indian government statement that 25,000 Hungarians and 7,00 Russians were killed in Budapest during the November uprising against communism, said that no more than 2,000 Hungarians lost their lives in the revolution.

lation of Hanoi and Haiphong if it is necessary to victory." Hanoi is North Vietnam's capital; Haiphong its main port.

What appears to be the dominant view in the Senate has been put by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, in these words: "Their continued intransigence leaves us no choice but to inflict greater punishment on the Communists until they halt their aggression. I am convinced that the use of superior force is the only means by which they can be forced to the conference table."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., had this to say: "As far as what weapons or techniques are needed to bring about victory or cause them to sit down at a conference table, it is a military problem, not a civilian problem."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has consistently voiced support for the administration's policy in Vietnam, causing disappointment among some old liberal friends who denounce the U.S. war effort.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, thinks the United States should recognize the National Liberation Front -- political arm of the Viet Cong, the Red guerrilla force operating in South Vietnam — then "move toward negotiations and try to neutralize the area." Acceptance of Viet Cong negotiators at the conference table is one of North Vietnam's conditions for starting peace talks.

Fulbright conceded that his is a minority view and commented: "Congress is more warlike than the President."

Another who swims against the apparent congressional tide is Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who wants to de-escalate the fighting and intensify peace bids.

"The options and alternatives," Mansfield contends, "are getting fewer."

The senator fears that the fighting may develop into a general Asian war.

A major difficulty in assessing the relative strength of the hawk and dove forces in the White House inner circle is the lack of a sharp definition of a hawk or of a dove.

To Fulbright Dean Rusk is certainly a hawk.

To Gen. Wallace M. Greene, commandant of the Marine Corps, Rusk is dove-ish.

In the view of many in Washington, Johnson himself is the foremost hawk. He has exhorted his field commanders in Vietnam to "come home with that coonskin on the wall."

In an Iowa speech last June, Johnson declared that as long as the Communists spurn negotiations "we must use our power to resist their aggression and try to change their minds."

But intimates say it must be obvious that nobody would be happier to entertain a Communist peace offer than Johnson, who must face the American voters again less than two years from now.

Johnson contends that he is neither hawk nor dove.

During a recent period when opponents of the war were bitterly criticizing McNamara, the President confided to friends that the secretary of defense was actually something of a dove.

The real hawk in his Cabinet, Johnson said, was Dean Rusk.

The President, Rusk and Rostow — the White House assistant on national security- share the conviction that Communist expansion in Asia is a threat comparable to the aggression of Hitler's Germany.

Johnson has even surmised that if South Vietnam falls the United States might be forced into a military defense of Hawaii.

During the new year, those who are unshakeably hawk will advocate greater and greater military pressure either to crush the Communists or drive them to a conference table.

The doves will continue to oppose escalation of the fighting, to advise against the intensified bombing of North Vietnam and to favor concessions, if necessary to end the war.

A leading dove on Capitol Hill is convinced the hawks will prevail.

"About all we can do," he said, "is point a finger and wring our hands."

Many of America's multi-laned superhighways follow trails and paths once used by Indians and early pioneers. According to The World Almanac, the Oregon Trail is now U.S. Highway 30; the Santa Fe Trail has now become U.S. Highways 85 and 56; and an old trail on the Eastern Seaboard is now U.S. Route 1.

Man Battles to Overcome Loss Of Limbs in Power Line Mishap

BY FRANK FARMER

BLUE EYE, Mo. (AP) — "When I see football on TV and see how the players use their hands and arms and legs and feet so rough. And how they are so rough on the other fellow's, it hurts me. But then, I get to thinking, I used to use mine the same way."

Wallis Rex (Bill) Pinkley, 27, of Blue Eye, Mo., is qualified to speak on the subject. He lost his hands and portions of his arms; his feet and portions of his legs when electric current burned through his body on Feb. 11, 1966.

Although Pinkley remembers 1966 as his "year of agony" he has determined to make the most of his handicap, adapted to use of artificial limbs and learned to "be of some use to my family and to myself."

Pinkley and his wife, Roberta, have two children, Patricia Ann, 6, and Judith Lynn, 2. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pinkley, of Blue Eye.

He had dropped out of college last winter to earn extra money and was helping his father "flag" for a pilot dropping fescue seed on several hundred acres of rugged pastureland on that fateful day in February. The flag was tied to the top of an aluminum pole.

The pilot buzzed over Pinkley, banked to make his turn and Pinkley started to move the required 10 paces northward so the pilot would have a target on his next run. But he never completed those 10 steps.

Overhead was a five-wire power line carrying 65,000 volts. The top of the pole touched one of the wires -- or perhaps the current jumped to the pole -- and there was a crack like a peal of thunder. The current surged down the pole, throgh Pinkley's hands and feet.

"I know I was hurt badly," Pinkley was to say later. "And then my shoulders started swelling, and then my legs. I had on boots and when my legs started swelling, I couldn't loosen the laces and I thought my legs would burst."

The pilot of the plane saw Pinkley lying helpless. He flew back to Blue Eye to summon help which arrived in about 30 minutes. Pinkley was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Springfield, Mo., then transferred to Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

For many days he was on the critical list, given no chance to survive, and he often didn't want to live so severe was the pain. "I wanted to die a lot of times," he recalls. "But if you can't die, then you can't! Then, after it was over, I got to thinking about my children and I wanted to live."

On March 26, Pinkley was released from the hospital to return to his brother Harold's home near Blue Eye.

There he continued to recuperate and plan future events of his altered life-further surgery and the fitting of artificial limbs.

The last three trips to Barnes Hospital was ended May 19. Pinkley and his wife went to Rehabilitation and Research Hospital in Houston, Tex., where he was fitted with the limbs.

The sensation of standing again, after long months of confinement on his back in bed or sitting in a wheelchair was exciting. It gave him courage for the long days of practice with the new appurtenances. The routine was simple— start out standing up 10 minutes a day, stretch it to 30 minutes; take a couple of steps at first and then walk to the end of the room. A sheet of paper on the floor could become a hill, a rug become a mountain. But Pinkley persisted and mastered his limbs.

"It sure was good to be able to take a bite of whatever I wanted at the table, rather than having to eat what was pushed at me," he said. "Now I can shave with an electric razor, and do quite a few other little things."

Among the new accomplishments was to hold his lively daughters in his arms, and to drive a car.

Concerning his future, Pinkley shakes his head. He hasn't made any plans. He's been too busy just surviving, adjusting to his family and they to him.

He's tried using a typewriter and finds it very slow, punching one key at a time with his metal "hands." But there is in his mind the germ of an idea that he might return to school.

As for other members of his family. Their feelings are generally summed up in this comment by his mother:

"We are just happy he is alive. We don't have a grumble or complaint. We are thankful for the way people have helped us out."

FOOLHARDY VENTURE

"If Christopher Columbus, the well known sailor from Genoa, had applied modern research methods to his proposed voyage, a consumer jury test would have told him in advance that the world was flat; depth, interviews with expert seamen would have revealed the impressive monsters that awaited him hungrily at the end of the sea; motivational studies among his crew would have shown that they were interested in only money; Ferdinand and Isabella would have canceled the appropriation; America would never have been discovered, and we would all be Indians." Charles Brower

'IN THE BEGINNING, GOD"

The first words of the Bible are the last words about creation. No one can get behind them. Are they not also foundational words for any time of beginnings - for the beginning of a new year, for the beginning of a new life, for the beginning of new hopes and possibilities? TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH will begin a new year in worship at 10:30 A.M. Sunday at 110 E. Center Street. Why not worship with us and at this place of beginning let there be room in your life for God.

lation of Hanoi and Haiphong if it is necessary to victory." Hanoi is North Vietnam's capital; Haiphong its main port.

What appears to be the dominant view in the Senate has been put by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, in these words: "Their continued intransigence leaves us no choice but to inflict greater punishment on the Communists until they halt their aggression. I am convinced that the use of superior force is the only means by which they can be forced to the conference table."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., had this to say: "As far as what weapons or techniques are needed to bring about victory or cause them to sit down at a conference table, it is a military problem, not a civilian problem."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has consistently voiced support for the administration's policy in Vietnam, causing disappointment among some old liberal friends who denounce the U.S. war effort.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, thinks the United States should recognize the National Liberation Front -- political arm of the Viet Cong, the Red guerrilla force operating in South Vietnam — then "move toward negotiations and try to neutralize the area." Acceptance of Viet Cong negotiators at the conference table is one of North Vietnam's conditions for starting peace talks.

Fulbright conceded that his is a minority view and commented: "Congress is more warlike than the President."

Another who swims against the apparent congressional tide is Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who wants to de-escalate the fighting and intensify peace bids.

"The options and alternatives," Mansfield contends, "are getting fewer."

The senator fears that the fighting may develop into a general Asian war.

A major difficulty in assessing the relative strength of the hawk and dove forces in the White House inner circle is the lack of a sharp definition of a hawk or of a dove.

To Fulbright Dean Rusk is certainly a hawk.

To Gen. Wallace M. Grcene, commandant of the Marine Corps, Rusk is dove-ish.

In the view of many in Washington, Johnson himself is the foremost hawk. He has exhorted his field commanders in Vietnam to "come home with that coonskin on the wall."

In an Iowa speech last June, Johnson declared that as long as the Communists spurn negotiations "we must use our power to resist their aggression and try to change their minds."

But intimates say it must be obvious that nobody would be happier to entertain a Communist peace offer than Johnson, who must face the American voters again less than two years from now.

Johnson contends that he is neither hawk nor dove.

During a recent period when opponents of the war were bitterly criticizing McNamara, the President confided to friends that the secretary of defense was actually something of a dove.

The real hawk in his Cabinet, Johnson said, was Dean Rusk.

The President, Rusk and Rostow — the White House assistant on national security- share the conviction that Communist expansion in Asia is a threat comparable to the aggression of Hitler's Germany.

Johnson has even surmised that if South Vietnam falls the United States might be forced into a military defense of Hawaii.

During the new year, those who are unshakeably hawk will advocate greater and greater military pressure either to crush the Communists or drive them to a conference table.

The doves will continue to oppose escalation of the fighting, to advise against the intensified bombing of North Vietnam and to favor concessions, if necessary to end the war.

A leading dove on Capitol Hill is convinced the hawks will prevail.

"About all we can do," he said, "is point a finger and wring our hands."

Many of America's multilaned superhighways follow trails and paths once used by Indians and early pioneers. According to The World Almanac, the Oregon Trail is now U.S. Highway 30; the Santa Fe Trail has now become U.S. Highways 85 and 56; and an old trail on the Eastern Seaboard is now U.S. Route 1.

Man Battles to Overcome Loss Of Limbs in Power Line Mishap

BY FRANK FARMER

BLUE EYE, Mo. (AP) — "When I see football on TV and see how the players use their hands and arms and legs and feet so rough. And how they are so rough on the other fellow's, it hurts me. But then, I get to thinking, I used to use mine the same way."

Wallis Rex (Bill) Pinkley, 27, of Blue Eye, Mo., is qualified to speak on the subject. He lost his hands and portions of his arms; his feet and portions of his legs when electric current burned through his body on Feb. 11, 1966.

Although Pinkley remembers 1966 as his "year of agony" he has determined to make the most of his handicap, adapted to use of artificial limbs and learned to "be of some use to my family and to myself."

Pinkley and his wife, Roberta, have two children, Patricia Ann, 6, and Judith Lynn, 2. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Pinkley, of Blue Eye.

He had dropped out of college last winter to earn extra money and was helping his father "flag" for a pilot dropping fescue seed on several hundred acres of rugged pastureland on that fateful day in February. The flag was tied to the top of an aluminum pole.

The pilot buzzed over Pinkley, banked to make his turn and Pinkley started to move the required 10 paces northward so the pilot would have a target on his next run. But he never completed those 10 steps.

Overhead was a five-wire power line carrying 65,000 volts. The top of the pole touched one of the wires -- or perhaps the current jumped to the pole -- and there was a crack like a peal of thunder. The current surged down the pole, throgh Pinkley's hands and feet.

"I know I was hurt badly," Pinkley was to say later. "And then my shoulders started swelling, and then my legs. I had on boots and when my legs started swelling, I couldn't loosen the laces and I thought my legs would burst."

The pilot of the plane saw Pinkley lying helpless. He flew back to Blue Eye to summon help which arrived in about 30 minutes. Pinkley was rushed to St. John's Hospital in Springfield, Mo., then transferred to Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

For many days he was on the critical list, given no chance to survive, and he often didn't want to live so severe was the pain. "I wanted to die a lot of times," he recalls. "But if you can't die, then you can't! Then, after it was over, I got to thinking about my children and I wanted to live."

On March 26, Pinkley was released from the hospital to return to his brother Harold's home near Blue Eye.

There he continued to recuperate and plan future events of his altered life-further surgery and the fitting of artificial limbs.

The last three trips to Barnes Hospital was ended May 19. Pinkley and his wife went to Rehabilitation and Research Hospital in Houston, Tex., where he was fitted with the limbs.

The sensation of standing again, after long months of confinement on his back in bed or sitting in a wheelchair was exciting. It gave him courage for the long days of practice with the new appurtenances. The routine was simple— start out standing up 10 minutes a day, stretch it to 30 minutes; take a couple of steps at first and then walk to the end of the room. A sheet of paper on the floor could become a hill, a rug become a mountain. But Pinkley persisted and mastered his limbs.

"It sure was good to be able to take a bite of whatever I wanted at the table, rather than having to eat what was pushed at me," he said. "Now I can shave with an electric razor, and do quite a few other little things."

Among the new accomplishments was to hold his lively daughters in his arms, and to drive a car.

Concerning his future, Pinkley shakes his head. He hasn't made any plans. He's been too busy just surviving, adjusting to his family and they to him.

He's tried using a typewriter and finds it very slow, punching one key at a time with his metal "hands." But there is in his mind the germ of an idea that he might return to school.

As for other members of his family. Their feelings are generally summed up in this comment by his mother:

"We are just happy he is alive. We don't have a grumble or complaint. We are thankful for the way people have helped us out."

END ADVANCE

FOOLHARDY VENTURE

"If Christopher Columbus, the well known sailor from Genoa, had applied modern research methods to his proposed voyage, a consumer jury test would have told him in advance that the world was flat; depth, interviews with expert seamen would have revealed the impressive monsters that awaited him hungrily at the end of the sea; motivational studies among his crew would have shown that they were interested in only money; Ferdinand and Isabella would have canceled the appropriation; America would never have been discovered, and we would all be Indians." 'IN THE BEGINNING, GOD''

The first words of the Bible are the last words about creation. No one can get behind them. Are they not also foundational words for any time of beginnings - for the beginning of a new year, for the beginning of a new life, for the beginning of new hopes and possibilities? TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH will begin a new year in worship at 10:30 A.M. Sunday at 110 E. Center Street. Why not worship with us and at this place of beginning let there be room in your life for God.

Sincerely,

Robert E. Lively, Jr.
Pastor
